Fonie Stephens, 38, Dies
Saturday Night in Hospital; Had Worked 8
Years in Mills.

LAGRANGE, Ga., May 12.—(AP)—Court-martial of two unnamed Georgia national guardsmen has been ordered following the death last night of Fonie Stephens, a Callaway cotton mill striker.

It also was learned today that court-martials by the same group of officers are to follow for 19 strikers now detained under military arrest by the national guard near Atlanta.

Stephens, injured two weeks ago in a brush with troopers when authorities began to evict strikers from company houses, died in a hospital where he was taken a few days ago.

A statement issued by the examining physicians said he died from complications resulting from bruises about the head. The doctors added that a weak heart might have contributed to his death.

A report to guard headquarters was to the effect that Stephens, one of some 200 men who assembled in the house of the family to be evicted, attacked a guard as he entered the house and the latter retaliated with his fists.

Second Attack.

A few minutes later, the report

Farley Investigation Up in Senate Today

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—Senator Long's campaign to oust Postmaster-General Farley from the cabinet tonight faced an open attack in the senate floor with the outcome up to a heavy democratic majority.

The Louisiana expressed confidence in his resolution for an investigation of Farley's official conduct would be approved when called up tomorrow. Administration leaders predicted overwhelming defeat. The postoffice committee has reported an inquiry unwarranted.

On the eve of the showdown, another attack was made on Long by the women's committee of Louisiana. An open letter to all senators, signed by Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, demanded action on the report of the Connally committee, which investigated Senator Overton's, democrat, Louisiana, election.

HOUSE CHIEFTAINS REMAIN ADAMANT ON NRA EXTENSION

New Blast From Liberty
League and Threatened
Senate Filibuster Fails
To Alter Stand.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—Despite a new critical blast from the American Liberty League, and in the face of a threatened senate filibuster, house democratic leaders today held tenaciously to their stand that a modified NRA should be extended at least two years.

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, showed clearly that the democratic chiefs had not changed their attitude when he told newspapermen:

"I'm for what the president wants, and I've had no indication that he wants anything less than a two-year extension. I believe the ways and means committee feels the same way."

MARTIN L. SEMON, THEATER MAN, DIES

Former Prominent Figure in Local Show World
Passes in Ohio.

(Picture in Page 5)

Martin L. Semon, affectionately known to thousands of Atlanta theatergoers and members of the profession as "Marty," died at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Portsmouth, Ohio, where he was manager of the Columbia theater. He was about 64 years old.

"Marty" Semon was for many years connected with the theatrical profession in Atlanta. He came here from Birmingham to manage the old Forney theater and later became in succession manager of the Capitol and then the Georgia theater.

Mr. Semon was a native of Richmond and there began his theatrical career under Jake Wells, of Wells, Dunn & Harlan Company. He later moved to Birmingham, where he married Miss Marie Hodgson. In Birmingham he managed the Bijou theater and then the Lyric theater. He was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Shrine in Birmingham, and a member of the Order of Elks. He counted his friends from among the greatest lights of the profession as well as among the lesser celebrities and was well known for his kindly manner and the help he extended to beginners and seasoned trouper alike. "Marty" was a resident of Atlanta for 15 years.

Surviving him, besides his wife, are two daughters, Miss Virginia Semon, a radio star, and Mrs. Milton Semon, of Portsmouth, and Larry Semon, of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Larry Semon, who is known as "Bing Crosby, of South America," is a radio star. He is at the present time in Atlanta on his vacation. The body will be brought to Atlanta for interment, arriving here at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg & Company later.

'Iron Man' of Poland, Joseph Pilsudski, Dies

Death of Dictator Follows Days of Illness;
Crisis in Peace Maneuvers May Be Precipitated.

WARSAW, May 12.—(AP)—Marshal Josef Pilsudski, 67, Poland's man of power, died at 8:45 p. m. tonight from cancer, on the ninth anniversary of the 1928 coup that made him virtual dictator of the land.

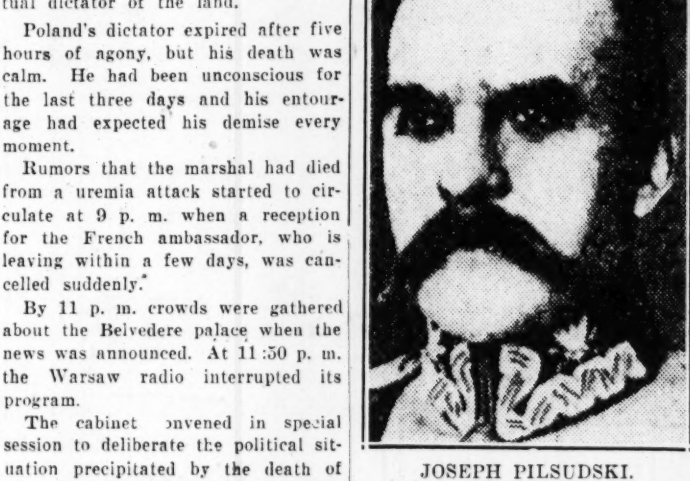

Poland's dictator expired after five hours of agony, but his death was calm. He had been unconscious for the last three days and his entourage had expected his demise every moment.

Rumors that the marshal had died from a uremia attack started to circulate at 9 p. m. when a reception for the French ambassador, who is leaving within a few days, was cancelled suddenly.

By 11 p. m. crowds were gathered about the Belvedere palace when the news was announced. At 11:30 p. m. the Warsaw radio interrupted its program.

The cabinet convened in special session to deliberate the political situation precipitated by the death of the man who was Poland's virtual ruler. Speculation is rife on the effect of Pilsudski's death on the general European peace situation.

Authorities took all possible precautions to prevent his death from precipitating internal disturbances. Police were reinforced and officers

UNION, EXECUTIVES MAP AUTO ACCORD

Peace Proposal Drafted for Presentation to Union
Membership.

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 12.—(AP)—A government supervised conference between executives and union representatives of the Toledo Chevrolet plant ended today when a peace proposal was drafted for presentation to the union membership.

The United Automobile Workers' Federal Union, which called a strike in the transmission plant April 23, will vote to accept or reject the proposal at a special business meeting tomorrow night. The strike forced approximately 33,000 General Motors employees to work in various parts of the country.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, emerged from the conference shortly after 3 a. m. and issued this statement:

"We have been in conference 19 hours and a proposal has been drafted in conjunction with the strike committee of the union at a meeting of the union Monday night at 8 o'clock."

The proposal was worked out in conjunction with the strike committee, representatives of the American Federation of Labor and officials of the General Motors Corporation.

The "The" of the proposal will not be given out until submitted to the union.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, declined to make a statement concerning the conference other than to say McGrady would act as spokesman for all concerned.

James Holland, chairman of the union's strike committee, refused to say whether he would recommend acceptance of the proposal.

The union drafted a signed contract, wage increases with a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour and changes in working conditions, including elimination of the so-called "speed-up system."

The company made counter-proposals, including a blanket 5 per cent wage increase and concessions in working conditions.

Employees of the plant voted today on the company proposals in a referendum Wednesday by a majority of approximately 2 to 1.

The union employees walked out April 23 and the management closed the unit, throwing approximately

WIFE, 4 CHILDREN DIE BY ACCIDENT

Quintet Cremated Because Firemen Informed
Family Was Not Home.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 12.—(AP)—A young mother and her four children were cremated in their beds early today because firemen thought the family was away from home.

Apparently overcome by smoke as they slept, the five burned to death in the second-floor bedrooms as the firemen, oblivious of their presence, battled flames that ruined a farm house near the village of Stanton, six miles east of here.

The dead were: Mrs. Alice Newcomb, 27; Walter Newcomb, 6; Pearl Newcomb, 5; Norman Newcomb, 3; David Newcomb, 17 months.

Their charred bodies were moved from the ruins after the flames died down. No search was made because a neighbor said he saw the family leave the house last night. When a check-up showed the mother and children had not visited relatives Tuesday afternoon, little change in temperature.

The husband and father of the dead, Frank Newcomb 28, was found lying on the lawn in a dazed condition. He told police he had visited a neighbor, John Ferguson, and returned home shortly before midnight to find the house in flames.

Taken into police custody for questioning, Newcomb was released after Ferguson confirmed his story of the visit. Investigation was continued, however.

The two-story stone building in which the Newcombs—a family on the relief rolls—lived was wrecked by the blaze, despite the efforts of firemen from Cranston Heights, Oak Grove, Mill Creek, Newport and Christiansburg.

Firemen said the flames probably started from explosion of a gasoline lamp Mrs. Newcomb left lighted to guide her husband home over the fields.

One Killed, 3 Hurt In Auto Accident

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., May 12.—(AP)—J. R. Brooks, 14, of Asbury, Ala., was killed and three persons were injured here tonight as their automobile ran off the road and plunged down an embankment.

C. E. Brooks, father of the dead boy, said he was blinded by the lights of another car and could not see the edge of the road.

The names of the injured could not be ascertained. There were six persons in the car but the elder Brooks and one other were not hurt.

Lamson Trial Jury Appears To Be Hung

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 12.—(UP)—A hung jury in the second trial of David Lamson on charges he murdered his young wife on Stanford University campus in 1933 was indicated today.

After 42 hours of deliberation, the jury forewoman, Mary Richter, said: "I do not believe certain votes can be changed."

Lamson was found guilty of first-degree murder at his first trial almost two years ago. The penalty is death by hanging.

COTTON FARMERS LEAVE HERE TODAY FOR WASHINGTON

Trainload Going to Capital
To Show Approval of Agricultural Adjustment
Program.

A "Cotton Farmers' Special" carrying 250 Alabama and Georgia farmers to Washington to express their views on the administration's agricultural adjustment program will leave here over the Southern railroad today.

Numerous county meetings have been held in Georgia recently at which the cotton growers voted their approval of the AAA program and urged continuance of the processing tax.

E. E. Barry, assistant general passenger agent of the Southern railroad, said county agents had made reservations for 350 Georgia and Alabama farmers on a train leaving here at 12:10 p. m. Most of this number is expected to come from Georgia. Many other delegates named at county meetings are expected to make the trip by automobile.

A second section of the regular train leaving here at that time will carry the farmers to the national capital.

VANGUARD OF FARMERS REACHES WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—A trek from the dirt roads of farm country to the nation's capital today was the vanguard of a mass demonstration Tuesday in support of the Agricultural Adjustment program.

By automobile, bus and train the pilgrims—each its organizer estimated would reach 3,000—converged on the capital. Prompting the movement were recent vigorous protests against the cotton processing tax.

"We heard these complaints against the processing tax," said C. H. Day, lanky Texan who promoted the farm march. "We felt the administration needed some support up here."

"This is the first time that the farmers have had such a common cause and we want to offset some of this opposition noise that has been put up by a few of the disgruntled farmers."

Republican Praises AAA.

As the first farmers arrived from the west and southwest, they heard a prominent republican spokesman for agriculture, Representative Hope, of Kansas, contend the AAA "has proven its value" and urge farmers to rally to its support.

"I am a republican," Hope said in a radio talk, "but I will support every sound program for agricultural progress."

King's Sleek Limousine Cruises in Squalid Area

LONDON, May 12.—(AP)—Through the narrow, squalid streets of the Limehouse, in the poorest section of London's East End, a long narrow-colored limousine cruised slowly this afternoon and a sad-eyed, bearded man gazed thoughtfully at grubby-faced children playing barefooted in the street and elders in shirtsleeves gossiping on the doorsteps.

Suddenly the cry went up: "The king!" and thousands of his majesty's subjects swarmed alongside the royal motor, overjoyed at the unheralded visit.

26-Year-Old San Diego Lieutenant Dies When Ship Dives Into Pacific Waters and Sinks Without Trace.

HONOLULU, May 12.—(AP)—A destroyer collision which killed one man and injured four and a plane plunge into the sea that took the life of an aviator were revealed here today as the casualties in the American fleet's secret mid-Pacific "war" operations.

The casualties were disclosed when 32 of the 133 warships steamed into Pearl Harbor here this morning and Admiral J. M. Reeves suddenly lifted the rigid censorship that had shrouded the operations since last Thursday.

Simultaneously Admiral Reeves made known that the 43 planes which took off here last Thursday for a mass flight somewhere in the mid-Pacific area had reached their secret destination safely 1,200 miles westward and were "executing their missions."

Naval officers said the great maneuvers had simulated actual war to a surprising extent.

The destroyer Lea tore into the stern of the destroyer Sicard just out of the harbor this morning while leading the bigger ships through an "enemy" network of submarines.

Only prompt work by a damage control officer prevented the Lea from sinking. She moved into harbor under her own steam, but her sharp prow was crumpled like a smashed automobile fender.

Ship Rendered Helpless.

Rendered helpless, the Sicard was taken in tow by a mine sweeper. She had a great hole in the under side of her fantail stern.

The destroyer collision occurred in

Two Are Burned In Gas Explosion On Pryor Street

Untapped Pipe, Left by Plumber, Said To Be Cause of Serious Blast at Residence.

The blast of a gas explosion in the house at 373 Pryor street, S. W., early yesterday morning rocked the neighborhood and sent a man and a woman to Grady hospital with serious burns.

Paul Williams, 32, salesman and roomer at the home, told Grady hospital attendants that when he entered the house Saturday night he was aware of the oppressive odor of gas, which by yesterday morning became stifling. He said Mrs. F. M. Allen, with whom he boards, requested him to assist her in locating the leak.

Williams said he went into the kitchen. The odor was heavy around the gas range and he thought a jet was leaking.

"I lit a match," he said. "Then the world ended!"

The blast shook the house and enveloped him and Mrs. Allen in the kitchen in flames. They ran into an adjoining room and beat out the flames which already had seared much of the flesh on their bodies.

The fire department extinguished the flames in the rear of the house.

Williams said he was informed following the accident that a pipe in the basement was leaking and the gas had entered the room through cracks in the floor. His condition was reported at Grady hospital as "fair," while Mrs. Allen's condition was said to be "poor."

A representative of the Atlanta Gas Light Company stated the company had made an investigation following the explosion and the investigators had been told that a plumber had been working at the home Saturday and had made some changes in the pipe connections, leaving a pipe untapped. Williams said he had not been told about the plumber.

Another victim of burns, admitted to Grady hospital was Bobby Pennington, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Pennington, of 1124 E. Kable avenue. He was badly burned about the face, arms and chest yesterday morning when he pulled a bowl of hot custard off the stove onto himself. His condition was reported as "fair."

Restrike Threatened At N. B. C. Plant

NEW YORK, May 12.—(UP)—A "restrike" of National Biscuit Company workers was threatened tonight, just 15 days after settlement of a 16-week strike.

Union employees announced a meeting Wednesday night to discuss another walkout "to force the company to live up to its agreement."

The Inside Bakery Workers' Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, charged the company has increased the speed of operations, cut down help, reduced wages and discriminated against strikers who remained out recently for 16 weeks.

Formal complaint will be filed with the Regional Labor Board, strike officers said.

Five Rob Arsenal, Flee Kentucky Jail

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 12.—(P)—After locking guards in a vault and stealing submachine guns and other weapons from the prison arsenal, five convicts escaped through the main entrance of the state reformatory here late today.

State police trailed them toward

Spring Station in adjoining Woodford county. The sedan car in which the convicts escaped was abandoned near Spring Station but they continued their flight in two other cars which motorists along the highway were forced to surrender.

Those who escaped were identified as Frank McDaniel, serving a life term from Clay county for the slaying of Police Judge C. P. Stivers at Manchester, Ky.; James Morris, serving two terms of 20 years each from Henry county for bank robbery; James Boyd Brown, Campbell county, serving a life term for the murder in a previous attempt to escape; Eddie Sons, serving a term from Campbell county. The fifth prisoner was not identified.

Slayer Kills Wife.

MONTVILLE, Conn., May 12.—(P)—Daniel Lynnick, 41-year-old laborer and the father of four children, beat his wife to death with a club today, authorities said, and then killed himself with a rifle. Medical Examiner Dr. John Donohue gave a verdict of murder and suicide.

FALLEN PLANE SOUGHT IN MOUNTAINS OF VA.

HARRISONBURG, Va., May 12.—(P)—Two hundred men, including CCC members and foresters, will resume the search tomorrow for an airplane reported to have crashed in the mountains of northwest Rockingham 40 miles from Harrisonburg.

A score of men combed the area in which the plane fell this afternoon but they were halted by darkness. They plan to cross Baker mountain in the morning and search Grove hollow, an isolated portion of the George Washington national forest.

BANKING BILL IS HELD ROAD TO INFLATION

Guaranty Trust Company
Says Measure Permits Duplication of Mark.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(UP)—The last barriers to inflation of the American currency on the order of that which wiped out the German mark, would be removed by passage of the 1935 banking bill in its present form, the Guaranty Trust Company, the nation's third largest bank, said today in a pamphlet published for stockholders.

Passage, the bank said, does not necessarily mean that the German mark repudiation would be duplicated by the dollar, but it would make such a move possible and "under pressure of continuing government deficits, the road to inflation would become more inviting, more dangerous and more imminent."

William C. Potter, chairman of the board of the bank, in a letter accompanying the pamphlet said that Title II of the banking act was the most important, the most dangerous part of the measure. This section, he declared, "would place control of the federal reserve banks in the hands of political appointees, and make any banking asset approved by the reserve board cover for additional currency."

The pamphlet conceded that the bill provided for the maintenance of the existing reserve in gold certificates and lawful money—which now limits the creation of additional reserve credit to about $13,000,000,000—if the expansion took place in member bank deposits rather than in notes.

"However," it said, "if this point should be reached and the government should still need to borrow to cover its deficit, is there any assurance that these reserve limits would not be progressively lowered? The vital point is that this bill would give the treasury which borrows the money, the practical power to dictate the volume of securities that the reserve banks must buy."

SCHUMANN-HEINKE
SINGS TO MOTHERS
DESPITE OWN GRIEF

CHICAGO, May 12.—(P)—Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink sang for the nation's mothers on a radio program today with a heavy heart. Just before "Mother Schumann-Heink" as thousands of soldiers knew her during the war, stepped to the microphone, she was told that a great-grandson, Hans Hirzy, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Hirzy, of Stevens Point, Wis., had died of an infection resulting from an attack of measles two weeks ago.

At the age of 74, Madame Schumann-Heink has 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren in addition to little Hans.

EX-GEORGIAN KILLED IN FLORIDA CRASH

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 12.—(P)—Ed L. Pinner, 33, well-known Florida newspaperman and native of Pensacola, was fatally injured tonight near Panama City when an automobile in which he and a friend, Stanley Sweeney, of Pensacola, were riding struck a cow.

The two were returning from Panama City from Barnes Beach, a nearby resort, where Pinner lived. Sweeney, who was driving, was unhurt. Pinner had been in newspaper work for 15 years. He had been employed on editorial staffs of papers in Pensacola, Daytona Beach and Jacksonville, Fla., and Macon, Ga.

Held in Torch Murder

Fearing suicide, a heavy guard has been placed at the Cambridge (Mass.) cell of Frank Di Stasio, 51-year-old candy maker who, police say, confessed he killed a total stranger and burned his body in an automobile in a plot to collect $12,500 insurance on his own life. His desire to marry a Brooklyn woman led him to commit the murder, according to authorities. The man's son, Anthony Di Stasio, below, who is also charged with the killing, confessed to the torch-murder plot which led to his father's arrest, police say.

Paraguay To Join Chaco Peace Parley

ASUNCION, Paraguay, May 12.—(UP)—The government tonight accepted an invitation to send a representative to Buenos Aires to confer with Bolivian officials and six military nations in an effort to end the Gran Chaco war.

Foreign Minister Luis A. Riart will attend the conference, leaving some time this week.

25 OFFICERS CAPTURE SUSPECTED BURGLAR

A cordon of police yesterday morning was thrown around a house in the North Boulevard residential section to capture N. W. Finley, 26, wanted by Jacksonville authorities in connection with recent chain store burglaries there, according to Atlanta police.

More than 25 uniformed police and plainclothesmen surrounded the house while Detectives W. B. Martin and D. L. Taylor entered to arrest Finley. They searched the house from garret to basement and were preparing to abandon the hunt when one of them kicked a pile of tin scraps under which, they said, Finley was hiding. He did not offer resistance.

Advised that Finley had been arrested, Sheriff Rex Sweat, of Duval county, Florida, wired that two deputy sheriffs were en route to Atlanta to return the prisoner to Jacksonville to face questioning.

ILLINOIS LINES DRAWN FOR SALES TAX FIGHT

Act Necessary for Relief;
Jobless Tighted Belts on Restricted Diet.

CHICAGO, May 12.—(P)—Illinois' 1,200,000 unemployed tightened belts today for a week of restricted, but sufficient, diet as preparations continued for another legislative battle over the 3 per cent sales tax.

With minimum food requirements for a seven-day period assured by final disbursement of Illinois emergency relief commission funds, just before that body shut up shop here Saturday, interest again centered on factional lines in the state house of representatives.

There Tuesday Governor Henry Horner seeking to meet federal demands that Illinois contribute $5,000,000 monthly to pay one-third of the cost of providing for its jobless, will try once more for passage of the sales tax measure designed to raise the amount. Already halted three times in the house, observers predicted the acrimonious argument might reach a new peak. Administration leaders were busy over the week-end trying to line up the 102 votes required for emergency passage of the bill, already approved in the state senate. The last vote on Tuesday gave them only 98 ballots.

WAR DEPARTMENT PROBE REOPENED

Military Business Tactics Again Studied by House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(P)—The house military committee was disclosed today to have resumed quietly behind closed doors its investigation of war department business tactics.

Chairman McSwain, democrat, South Carolina, continued renewal of the inquiry and spoke of some "startling revelations" that might develop from evidence thus far obtained.

A special counsel giving full time to the investigation has been scrutinizing the affairs of Joseph Silverman Jr., of New York, a dealer in army surplus. Contracts in which he was involved were investigated in a district of Columbia grand jury probe last year.

After five weeks of study, the jury declined to return any indictments. It then handed over a transcript of the testimony to the military committee.

The present inquiry, McSwain said, involves not only Silverman but also two kinsmen and several army officers.

The exact course of the new search was concealed. But it was learned that W. Frank James, the committee counsel, recently had a truck and two trunks filled with records brought to Washington.

Silverman himself then was called before a small group of members. McSwain said he might be asked to testify again shortly.

The grand jury investigation carried the name of Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war, onto the front pages as the most prominent witness. Woodring barred Silverman from the department during the course of the proceedings.

Silverman was reported to have told the grand jury he had a two-way contract to sell back 700,000 suits of underwear to the war department at the price he paid for them. In return, he said, he received assurance he would be permitted to buy other excess supplies for which the army had no use.

The underwear deal, he said, would have saved the government $700,000. The military committee took up an investigation of war department expenditures under orders from the house. It was a result of that inquiry that Secretary Dorn recently delivered a stinging message of censure to Colonel Joseph I. McMullen, of Washington, for having private business relations with parties interested in war department business affairs.

Satisfactory Trade Features Opening Day Of Sterchi Stores 47th Anniversary Sale

Living quarters styled by Paul Sillin, noted interior decorator of the Sterchi staff are on display for patrons of Sterchi Brothers Stores, Inc., at the Atlanta store at 116 Whitehall street in order that they may observe exactly how certain suites or pieces would appear in similar rooms of their own homes. The display is being run in conjunction with the forty-seventh anniversary sale of all Sterchi stores in Georgia and has drawn favorable comment from many visitors. The furnished rooms are on the fourth and fifth floors.

First day results of the forty-seventh anniversary sale of Sterchi Brothers Stores, Inc., which opened Saturday and which is being conducted simultaneously in the store at 116 Whitehall street, Atlanta, and at Athens, Rome, Macon and Dalton, revealed that the general buying public is keenly awake to secure outstanding bargains. All stores reported a brisk trade.

The sale is one of the most elaborate of its type ever attempted in the south. Thousands of pieces and suites of fine furniture, for which the institution is noted, are on display at specially attractive reduced prices at all five stores. It was declared by W. M. Hicks, vice president of the organization and manager of the Atlanta store.

The south-west institution has enjoyed rapid growth since its organization in 1888 by the late J. G. Sterchi, one of the most prominent and best liked merchants of the south. Until a few years before his death he continued as active president of the firm. C. C. Rutherford, of Knoxville, succeeded Mr. Sterchi as president and has consistently carried on the founder's policies of good will service and honest value.

The Atlanta store is now one of the most famous furniture stores in the south. Its five stories are filled with the fine type of merchandise for which the institution is noted. One of the most attractive features

Memorial Services Held for Adolph Ochs

NEW YORK, May 12.—(P)—The late Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, was eulogized today as a humanitarian and great citizen at memorial services in the synagogue of the Jacob H. Schiff center.

"No non-official citizen of the United States," said Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the Times, "ever drew greater homage than Adolph S. Ochs. He was the wisest, the kindest, the most just, the most liberal-minded and the most charitable of all the men with whom I have been associated."

BOSTON, May 12.—(P)—A new-born, an editor and a relative today eulogized the late Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, at memorial services held at the Beth Israel temple, in Boston.

Dr. Joseph H. Wise, managing editor of the Springfield Republican, said: "I could hardly pay Mr. Ochs a greater tribute than to say that he made the New York Times an organ of intelligence."

Rabbi Joseph H. Wise, of New York, a brother-in-law of Mr. Ochs, spoke on "Ochs as a Personality." "He never thought of himself as successful and had no measuring rod for success," Rabbi Wise said. "He had little conception of how other men might be successful, although he admitted them for their accomplishments."

Harry Marder, "mayor of Newburyville," spoke on behalf of the Burroughs Newsboys' foundation.

MORE GUILTY PLEAS SEEN IN BREMER CASE
ST. PAUL, May 12.—(P)—Additional pleas of guilty were expected today to hasten the month-old trial of eight persons, accused of conspiracy in the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnap, to an end this week.

Counsel for Elmer Farmer, Bensenville, Ill., tavern-keeper, named by the government as a party to the abduction itself, announced his client will plead guilty and ask the mercy of the court.

The attorney for Harold Alderton, occupant of the home at Bensenville where the St. Paul banker was held captive for 21 days, said Alderton will decide today whether to enter a guilty plea.

Defense testimony is to be completed Tuesday or Wednesday with the prospect that Arthur (Doc) Barker, one of the alleged abductors, and his co-defendants may know their fate from the jury trying them under the Lindbergh law late Thursday.

BY CRAZED HUSBAND
SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 12.—(UP)—A crazed husband ran amuck in his estranged wife's home today, killing his 15-year-old stepson, critically wounding a young boarder and surrendering when his gun jammed after he had dashed into his wife's bedroom.

The husband, R. A. Hensley, of El Centro, Cal., was held on suspicion of murder.

He shot his stepson, Charles Lawrence, as the boy ran into his mother's room to protect her. Previously, he had appeared at the door of a room occupied jointly by the boarder, Clyde Parker, service station attendant, and the boy. Hensley fired bullets into Parker's lung and hip.

DR. RUSHBROOKE URGES "NEW SPIRIT IN MEN"

Noted London Pastor Moves Overflow Congregation at Druid Hills.

"A new world can arise only through a new spirit in men," declared Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, England, preaching in the Druid Hills Baptist church Sunday morning to a throng of people that filled every available space, many being turned away after improvised seating facilities had been exhausted.

Dr. Rushbrooke, executive secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, is in Atlanta as the guest of Dr. Louis Newton, preaching in the Druid Hills Baptist church Sunday morning to a throng of people that filled every available space, many being turned away after improvised seating facilities had been exhausted.

The sermon at Druid Hills Sunday morning was based on the first verse of the fifth chapter of Galatians. "Set free for freedom" was the theme of the sermon in which the distinguished Britisher set forth in vivid statement the cardinal position of Baptists in regard to freedom from ecclesiastical and official tyranny; second, freedom from the control of powers external to the church; third, freedom from worldly authority and a worldly temper.

"To us the Christian faith is a charter of liberty from priestly domination, sacramental magic, and every form of traditionism which fetters itself against the Gospel. We believe we are set free for freedom and not in order to find ways to return to subjection. Only see to it that our freedom is in Christ," Dr. Rushbrooke said.

Russia, Land of Atheism.
"We could never tolerate the principle that the secular state should assert a right to invade the realm in which free men are joined together in the fellowship and service of the one Lord. Was there ever during the entire Christian era a period in which the facts of experience over wide areas of human life so definitely converge to demonstrate the basic wrongness of state domination over the church? What says Russia to us? The outstanding fact of today in that land is the continuous and far-reaching spread of atheism."

"And why? Never was a great ecclesiastical institution more definitely assimilated by the state than was the Eastern orthodox church of Russia. It was the only embodiment of religion known to the masses. It performed the function which German national socialists today envisage for religion, that of diffusing a mental outlook which shall strengthen the ruling class, and of providing mythical sanctions for a political organization and policy. When the Russian revolution came, and the corrupt state fell, the church was involved in the ruin of the system of which it had been a part."

Free Churches.
"In the review of history we see the vindication of our Baptist position of free churches in a free state, and we may well be thankful that we have ever sought by the grace of God to keep free from the perils of state connection. I rejoice, as you do, that many other Christian communions stand with us for the complete separation of church and state."

"We are trustees of the Gospel, and we owe to us if we fail to preach the Gospel in its saving power. Let us never fall into the error of dealing with mere generalities rather than the vital issues that touch the very center of individual life and all its needs. I love to remember a sentence I once heard Dale of Birmingham use. 'The harvests of life ripen slowly, but while they are ripening God's lost children may be found and brought home to their Father.'"

Only One Answer.
"There is but one answer to the disappointment, perplexity and bewilderment which mark the collapse of state-manship in a confused world, namely, materialism and paganism. The only way to escape the grip, and the only way to cure the ills of our human grief is in the freedom which Christ bestows through his redeeming blood."

Dr. Rushbrooke spoke Sunday afternoon to the negro Baptists of Atlanta in Spelman chapel, and Sunday night he preached again at the Second-Pence de Leon Baptist church. At 9:30 Sunday night he was heard in a nation-wide radio broadcast, speaking on the eternal values of human personality redeemed by the love of God.

He will leave Atlanta for Memphis this afternoon in company with Dr. Newton, where they will attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Baptist World Alliance Tuesday morning and later attend the sessions of the Southern Baptist Convention. Dr. Rushbrooke will go from Memphis to Dallas, Texas, as the guest of Dr. George W. Truett, and from there to Mexico and Canada, sailing for England in June.

'Make-a-Date' Chain Letters Set Modest California Co-eds Aflutter

BERKELEY, Cal., May 12.—(P)—It's enough to make a girl chew up pencils and pencils—this "send-a-date" chain letter idea at the University of California.

"I can't see where it's going to end," said Miss Mary Kirk, pretty freshman co-ed, as she contemplated today the prospect of being "dated up" for years and years and years. Miss Kirk's name appeared on the "send-a-date" letters at the top of a list of five. Men students receiving the letters were directed to make a "date" with the top girl, scratch her name from the list, add a new one and send copies along to five friends.

"There won't be a dance to spare pretty quick," predicted Eldon Grimm, senior in the College of Commerce, who was credited by the Daily California, student newspaper, with originating the idea. "It would certainly bring the students together. He figured each of the 6,000 co-eds at the university would be "dated" approximately 26,000 times if each of the 10,000 men students co-operated by seeing that no link was broken. There would be something like 150, 250,000 "dates" altogether in the one chain.

"It looks like we might be chained for life," said Miss Kirk, a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. She thought, just off-hand, that she might manage 26,000 dates, at the rate of one a day, in about 70 years. Another of the co-eds on the list, Miss June Sears, approved the plan. "I think it should be adopted at all universities," she said. "It would certainly bring the students together."

Miss Kirk and Miss Sears said they hadn't received any phone calls yet. "That's because it's too soon for the men to get in the swing of the thing," Grimm insisted. He pointed out that the 6,000 co-eds should remember, in the case of conflicting "dates," and other possible complications, the slogan: "Faith, hope and, of course—charity," which introduces each letter.

THE PRICE OF LAW'S DELAYS

The reversal by the United States circuit court of appeals of the conviction of former Governor William Langer, of North Dakota, for conspiracy to misuse federal relief funds is striking illustration of the price paid by government, business and individuals for the long-drawn-out delays incident to American court procedure.

Langer under the law of North Dakota was automatically removed from office upon his conviction on the charge that workers paid with federal relief funds had been subjected to solicitation for political subscriptions to be paid to his newspaper.

The state was immediately thrown into a political turmoil from which it has not yet emerged. Several persons have held the governorship for brief periods and issues of vital importance to the people of North Dakota have been sidetracked in the bitterness of the partisan contest aroused over the Langer case.

For 11 months the state has been torn by a bitter factionalism, a governor who it is now held was illegally convicted was deprived of his office and governmental conditions disorganized because it took nearly a year for a high court to rule that the evidence presented in the trial was not sufficient to warrant conviction.

Similar instances of injury to the public weal and to private interests because of the interminable delays possible under present legal procedure in America are to be found constantly in every state in the Union.

What has happened to the state government of North Dakota is happening practically every day to business interests, which are handicapped and put under large and unnecessary expense incident to the adjudication of civil suits.

Criminals are finally winning out after keeping their cases in court so long that vital witnesses have disappeared and juries are worn out with hearing the case time and again. The average criminal now considers a conviction only the first step toward an eventual acquittal.

Under English jurisprudence the Langer case would have been finally settled within a few weeks and the state of North Dakota spared the needless turmoil and loss of governmental efficiency suffered for almost a year—and the end is not yet in sight, as the case has been remanded for a new trial. Another conviction will mean a year or so more of legal wrangling.

The Langer case was tried and appealed in the federal courts. Had it been in the state courts the probability is that the delay would have been even longer. Some states have made definite progress in clearing their legal procedure of technicalities to which resort may be made in the hope of deferring just punishment, but in the majority, as in the case of Georgia, the efforts of leading members of the bar have generally gone for naught when the proposition of modernization of the code reaches legislatures largely made up of lawyers who, apparently, are loath to take action that may reduce their opportunity for fees.

The reversal of the Langer case and the needless loss suffered by the people of North Dakota as the result of the unnecessary delay in its progress through the courts will, it is to be hoped, spur the bar associations of the country to renewed efforts to bring the American codes to the same standard of efficiency that exists in every other civilized country in the world.

WHEN DICTATORS CLASH

While less frequently in the international limelight, Kemal Pasha, Turkish dictator, is cast in the same mold as Mussolini. Both have accomplished the remaking of their countries through the exercise of indomitable will and the ruthless crushing of those who would stand in their way.

It was to be expected that the fur would fly if these two should come in conflict. So, when Mussolini recently made veiled reference to Asia Minor in discussing Italy's need for territorial expansion, Kemal Pasha, whose language is never mysterious, notified the world that "I will scratch out the eyes of anyone who dares to look at Asia Minor and I will cut off any claw that stretches itself in the direction of Smyrna."

The Turkish dictator did not stop at talk. He ordered 450 new tanks from Russia; extended the term of service in the army; ordered the rebuilding of the defenses of the Dardanelles; placed a large order for coast artillery in France, and moved six divisions of troops from the Anatolian interior to the coastal garrisons.

Not satisfied, he sought and concluded an alliance with Greece, Rumania and Yugoslavia—the so-called Balkan pact under which these four nations undertake to guarantee each other's territorial integrity.

It is significant that only one Balkan power, Bulgaria, failed to enter the pact, because Bulgaria is Italy's ally, the Italo-Bulgarian pact having been sealed by the marriage of a daughter of King Vittorio Emanuele to King Boris.

In concluding a treaty with Greece, the historic enemy of Turkey, Kemal Pasha checkedmate three of Europe's dominant figures—Mussolini, Zahiroff, known as the world's richest man, and former Premier Venizelos, of Greece.

Mussolini opposed the Balkan pact because it effectively bars the way to Italian penetration in that part of the world; Sir Basil Zahiroff, who started his meteoric career in Greece, is opposed because Turkey is an ally of soviet Russia and he wants Greece to veer the other way, lining up in an anti-soviet bloc with Poland, Finland, Germany, Japan and a group of lesser nations; Venizelos realized that the pact weakened the prospects for success of his effort to overthrow the government at Athens.

Italy desires the rearrangement of territory in the Balkans, with Bulgaria being given back some of the property ceded to Turkey and Yugoslavia, and Venizelos has expressed the belief that such a rearrangement is inevitable. So strong was his advocacy of redistribution of territory that when he launched his revolt against the Athens governments he was accused of being the "agent of a foreign power"—meaning Italy.

On the eve of the Venizelos revolt, Mussolini issued a statement that his country could mobilize 8,000,000 men—a statement clearly intended to warn Kemal Pasha to keep out of the internal affairs of Greece and not go to the aid of the Greek government, despite the Balkan pact.

Kemal's reply was to mobilize three army corps in Thrace, near one of the focal points of the Greek revolt.

Thus did the Turkish dictator give public notice that the Balkan pact must be respected. The Greek revolt failed and the cause of peace triumphed. Had a weaker man been at the helm at Ankara the outcome might have been far different.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Tel Aviv.

The streets are crowded. The new theaters are jammed. The boulevard cafes with their fashionably dressed crowds offer a spectacle which makes you think of Deauville, St. Juan-Pons or some other resort-city on the Cote d'Azur in France. There is prosperity in Palestine. Prosperity is so rare these days that the first question that enters your mind is whether the present feverish tempo is something permanent, whether it will last. Whether it lasts or not (I hope to speak of this much in a subsequent article) this much is certain: It is a pleasant experience to be for once in a land where a buoyant tone of optimism drowns out the note of insecurity and uncertainty which is so prominent in so many other countries in the world today. Palestine is a refreshing experience after the gloom which hangs like a pall of death over crisis-ridden Europe.

Some Surface Signs.

A picture of Palestine? Well, this town of Tel Aviv has grown to metropolitan dimensions. A barren heath of sand 15 years ago, it is today the Paris of the near east. The population of 120 in 1910 has jumped to 170,000 today. Ben Yehuda street, Rothschild boulevard, Allenby road, straggling village streets, many years ago, now run along for miles, completely built up with two parallel rows of modern villas and apartment houses in modern cubistic style. There is an opera, there is a Russian theater—Habima—one of the best in the world, there are movie palaces as fine and spacious as New York houses. There are bars and clubs, ice cream parlors. I took a great liking to ice cream for the first time in my life, having given up smoking temporarily through the loss of my pipe in the pilgrim rush at Djeddah.

There are five art exhibitions going on in Tel Aviv this week. Among them one by the Parisian master, Max Jacob, who painted with the Roosevelt last year; one by Rubin and one by Chana Orloff, the sculptress. When you hear that Orloff was a 10-year-old girl of sculpture at the age of 6,000 pounds, you gain an idea of the affluence, the wealth now concentrating in Palestine. Art objects are not sold overmuch in other countries these days. Art is starving in Paris, but not in Palestine. This does not mean that a new Palestinian art is in process of creation. For that it is too early. The New Palestine is but 20 years old. Twenty-six newspapers and periodicals have made their appearance since I was here. ## News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon

RUSH WASHINGTON, May 12.—Traffic is jamming up around President Roosevelt's four-billion-dollar pap barrel. The place has been over-run lately with governors and mayors or their special representatives. The boys are crowding in from far and near, trying to arrange quietly for their swig of that four billion. All are promoting pet projects back home.

The crowding has become so close that the mayors have actually established a Washington headquarters. The official conference of mayors is opening up offices in an old brownstone front edifice, half a block from the White House. Only one lobbying outfit is nearer to the executive mansion, and that is the women's peace organization.

Of course, the mayors insist they are not lobbying. In a sense, that is true. There is no doubt that the relief program requires states and cities to have representatives on the job here to look out for their interests. Their relations with the federal government have become so extensive that senators and congressmen can no longer handle the job effectively.

SPREAD An old ex-tariff lobbyist stood before the new mayor's lobby building recently and pondered how times have changed. In the old days, a lobbyist was any hired man who wore a red necktie and diamond scarf pin while seeking to influence the processes of government. This gentry has passed away.

In their places have grown up groups which seem to be endlessly spreading. A few years ago, the foremost groups with Washington lobbying headquarters were those of the veterans, manufacturers, labor, etc. The New Deal has developed such new high-powered publicity promoting outfits as the Committee for the Nation, led by Wall Street money agitators; the Union for Social Justice, led by a Detroit priest; the American Liberty League, and now the Conference of Mayors.

TIP Just for the information of mayors, they need not weep about the statements being put out by the New Dealers (Hopkins, et al.), implying that cities are not going to get much money unless their credit is good and they can borrow it from the government.

The situation on that is that Mr. Hopkins wisely wants to give away just as little money as possible. He would rather lend it. However, the financial situation of most of the cities is no secret. If their credit rating should ever be made the strict test, they would never get any money. But Hopkins must give them the money because the relief problem is largely in their hands.

Also, many cities loom larger than states in the fiscal and public works fields. For instance, the 10 largest fiscal units of government are the federal government, five big cities and four states, ranking in that order. New York city spends more for its police than 33 states do for their entire government.

Hopkins merely wants to make the cities borrow wherever possible before the free federal money starts to flow.

BONUS The overlooked fact behind the existing bonus controversy is that it is not primarily a bonus controversy. What has happened is that the inflationists in congress lose the bonus issue to promote their money ideas.

Congressman Patman, author of the prevailing bill, has always been a bonusite, but primarily he is an inflationist. He lives, breathes, walks and talks the easy money issue. The character of the men who put his bill over in the senate shows the distinction even more clearly. Every senatorial page boy knows that Senator Thomas never ceases to let his money ideas guide all his actions. And no one ever saw Huey Long limiting himself to soldiers' before.

It was perfect inflationist strategy. By swiping the bonus issue and making it their own, they managed to develop their maximum possible support in congress for their real issue.

COURT-CURBING Talk has developed in congress lately about changing the powers of the supreme court. It is only talk.

What started it, of course, was the 5-to-4 decision outlawing the railroad pension system. Congressman Ramsey, of West Virginia, who is a very good lawyer, has formally proposed a constitutional amendment in the house. It would prevent inferior courts from invalidating acts of congress and permit the supreme court such power only by a two-thirds vote. Congressman Lewis, of Maryland, has dug up an old unpassed Borah bill of 1923 which would require a vote of 7-to-2 for invalidation of congressional laws. The interesting part of Borah's old proposal is that it assumed congress could change court procedure without a constitutional amendment. The only thing the constitution says on the subject is that the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction (Article 3, Section 2, Paragraph 2) over acts of congress.

This talk always arises when the court invalidates a popular congressional act. Nothing will be done about it now.

NOTES Labor leaders are willing to confess of the record that they see no way to write a railroad pension act getting around the supreme court decision.

Five functioning justices of the supreme court are over 70, but other federal employees are required to resign when they reach that age.

Mrs. Roosevelt's friend, Congresswoman Caroline O'Day, argued in a hearing that men have destroyed women's historic place in the home by inventing machines to do her housework, thus causing her to seek new friends outside. So they blame even women's new freedom on men. That may be a tip to husbands not to buy housework saving devices.

The congressman who gets the most mileage is Representative Wallgren, of Everett, Wash. He lives farthest away. The one who gets the least is Representative Smith, of Alexandria, Va., who lives across the river from the capital.

LAVAL MAY OFFER PACT TO MOSCOW

Security Accord Expected To Be Major Topic of Conversations.

MOSCOW, May 12.—(P)—Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, and Soviet leaders will discuss the possibility of broadening the Franco-Soviet security pact to include other nations of eastern Europe, authorized quarters said tonight.

They did not express great optimism on the eve of Laval's arrival, in view of Germany's cold attitude toward a mutual assistance pact including the Soviet Union and of indications that Poland also was unfriendly to the idea.

The Journal de Moscou said Laval's conversations with Joseph Stalin, Soviet dictator, and Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, would be devoted principally to the international political situation (presumably German rearmament).

Laval will inform Soviet leaders of the results of his talks in Poland yesterday which the press here intimates were given negative results. The possibility of bringing Poland into a system of assistance accords built up around the Franco-Soviet pact was viewed with little optimism after what was termed Laval's cool reception in Warsaw.

Czechoslovakia, on the other hand, is expected to sign a pact with the Soviet at an early date.

Most newspapers today emphasized the growth of the red army and Soviet industry, which they said committed to create a formidable power pledged to the cause of European peace.

"There is no statesman in Europe so blind that he cannot recognize the fact that this peace is menaced," said the official Lavoski, "France and the Soviet stand together, with guns at their feet, stretching out their hands to welcome co-operation with other countries and fight off the menace."

The French ambassador and high officials of the Russian foreign office will meet Laval at the border tonight and he will be greeted personally by Litvinoff at the Moscow airport tomorrow morning. He will be received at the Kremlin Tuesday.

LAVAL IS CONFIDENT OF FACTS' SUCCESS ABOARD TRAIN EN ROUTE TO SOVIET FRONTIER, Poland, May 12.—

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, of France, speeding from Warsaw to Moscow, told the Associated Press tonight France's efforts to cement European peace "will be crowned with success."

"These efforts are not directed against anybody," Laval declared. "To the contrary, they call for the collaboration of all nations of good will without exception. France is and will continue to remain pacific."

The statesman is en route to Moscow to cement ties growing from the Franco-Russian treaty of mutual assistance.

Pensions and Citrus Studied in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 12.—(P)—The Florida legislature returns to its duties tomorrow with leaders prepared to open up the throttle for greater speed toward solution of the problems of financing schools and the state government.

Still on the outside, however, stood the cities, counties and districts who lost heavily in revenue when last year's homestead tax exemption amendment was adopted, and they still wondered what would be done to help them over the situation.

School and state governmental financing were linked together in a series of measures to levy some new taxes and to increase others in order to provide annually $10,500,000 for the former and $5,850,000 for the latter.

For the moment, however, these measures were laid aside as the senate scheduled consideration of old age pensions, and the house had citrus legislation on its special order calendar for tomorrow.

S. C. RUM BILL VETO FEARS DIMINISH

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 12.—(P)—Fear of the exercise of the executive veto, with possible legislative complications, lurked in some quarters today as the general assembly prepared to begin its nineteenth and perhaps final week here.

One item which many legislators expected to see Governor Olin D. Johnston strike out of the appropriation act was the $4,044 salary of the chief highway commissioner, Ben M. Sawyer.

The free conference itemized the highway allotment as the governor had demanded and he has authority to veto the item without rejecting the entire bill.

Concern that Johnston might veto a licensing liquor bill—one of the major acts of the 1935 session—diminished as the week-end passed.

19-YEAR-OLD DIVES 7,000 FEET IN AIR WITH 'BAT' WINGS

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., May 12.—(UP)—With the canvas unraveling in the wind, Bill Picune, 19-year-old parachute jumper, today made a 7,000-foot descent from an airplane with man-made wings.

The youthful parachute veteran made two hops and "worked himself out of a tailspin during his descent from 10,000 feet before opening his parachute at 3,000 feet. As he neared the ground he opened his emergency chute to enable him to drift over automobiles parked at Teterboro airport.

"It was grand," Picune said. "When I found myself in a right spin I pulled down my right arm and held out my left and came right out of it. My body behaved just like an airplane in a similar spin."

Picune had neglected to stitch the edges of his canvas wings and they unraveled about two inches.

TWO MEN WOUNDED BY UNKNOWN NEGRO

Shot in the shoulder by an unidentified negro last night on Whitfield street near Hood street, Rufus Bentley, 25, of a Pryor street address, was admitted to Grady hospital for observation and his companion, Dewey Kent, 17, of Senoia, Ga., who was shot in the thumb, was being held at the city jail charged with being drunk and disorderly.

According to police reports, the two men were seated on the curb when several negroes passed by. One of the men attempted to hit one of the negro women and her escort drew a pistol and began firing at random. One of the bullets struck Bentley in the shoulder and another hitting Kent in the thumb.

Barbara To Join Select Divorcees Today—The Ex-Wives of Mdivanis

RENO, Nev., May 12.—(UP)—America's "poor little rich girl," will discard her foreign title tomorrow and become plain Barbara Hutton after a brief court hearing when she obtains a "made-to-order Reno" divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani.

Whether she will remain Barbara Hutton or assume another foreign title to become Countess Hangwitz was an issue that intrigued the divorce capital. Count Hangwitz, of Denmark, is now in the United States on what he claims to be "just a visit."

He was expected to arrive here by air from the east late tonight.

The handsome Dane is believed to be timing his arrival so he won't have to wait long for Barbara after her divorce.

Despite his denial in New York that he would marry her or anyone else within the next year, it is believed here that the wedding will take place at the palatial Lake Tahoe summer home of George Thatcher, Barbara's attorney, either tomorrow or Tuesday.

Barbara, it is understood, intends to be back in Europe two weeks from today.

Her divorce from Alexis will place her on a par with his two brothers, Serge and David, also princes whose charms have captivated many. Serge has been divorced by Pola Negri, film star, and David by Mae Murray, film star.

Alexis was divorced by Louise Astor Van Allen, New York society girl, and also an heiress, just before his marriage to Barbara in Paris on June 21, 1933.

The divorce will be simple and brief. Alexis will not contest the action, having been assured by Barbara that she will continue the prenuptial settlement made upon him when he agreed to forego any claim to her $10,000,000. He will, of course, be expected to pay the legal costs.

DR. PAULIN TO SPEAK TO FLORIDA MEDICOS

OCALA, Fla., May 12.—(P)—More than 400 physicians and surgeons are expected here tomorrow for the opening of the 63d annual meeting of the Florida Medical Association.

The Florida Railway Surgeons' Association will hold a one-day session during the three days the medical association gathering continues.

Other organizations meeting simultaneously are the Florida Radiological Society, the Florida Society of Dermatology and Syphilology and the Fellows of the Southeastern Surgical Congress.

Chief addresses at the medical meeting will be delivered by Dr. James E. Paulin, of Atlanta, and Dr. Ste-

The arrangements for the breakfast are in charge of William Oberst, president of the club. Joseph B. Brennan, member of the law firm of Sutherland, Tuttle & Brennan, will be the principal speaker at the breakfast.

Other officers of the club are Frank Fitzpatrick, vice president; Thomas Kehoe, secretary, and Miss Jeanette Fitzpatrick, treasurer.

POISON TRACES FOUND IN 5 GROSS BODIES

NEW YORK, May 12.—(UP)—Enough thallium sulphate to cause death was found in the bodies of Barbara and Catherine Gross, small daughters of Alexander Gross, 49, who is held in connection with the death of his wife and four children, it was announced tonight.

District Attorney William F. K. Geoghan, of Kings county, announced this result of autopsies on the ex-humiliated bodies made by Dr. Alexander O. Gottler, medical examiner. The district attorney has contended that the five persons died of the rarely used poison, which was found mixed with cocoa in the Gross home.

RECEIVERSHIPS ENDED FOR 8 NATIONAL BANKS

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(P)—Termination of receiverships for eight insolvent national banks in March was reported today by J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency. The total remaining in receivership was given as $1,530.

SOUTHERN PURCHASES FROM NORTH INCREASE

Cash Farm Income Rises
$270,380,000 in Year,
AAA Estimates.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(P)—Carlot shipments into ten southeastern states of manufactured goods for domestic and personal use were reported by the AAA today to have increased 57.6 per cent in the year beginning July 1, 1933, over the previous 12 months.

Shipments were said to have increased from 115,640,478 to 182,308,112 pounds. States included in the survey were Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia. The Farm Adjustment Administration said 16 northwestern industrial states were sources of the goods.

Movements of stoves and heaters increased from 6,251,271 to 11,481,709 pounds, an increase of 83 per cent. The increase for refrigerators was 145 per cent—from 4,029,050 to 11,512,361 pounds.

One of the greatest increases reported was in tables—1,010 per cent. The increase was from 24,000 pounds to 246,560 pounds.

Shipments of matches jumped from 3,090,934 pounds to 7,973,280 pounds, and shipments of shoe polish increased from 51,195 to 945,123 pounds.

A gain of 39 per cent was shown in shipments of roller skates, while the gain in miscellaneous toys was 62 per cent.

The AAA said the cash income from crops and benefit payments in these states increased from $451,437,000 in the year July 1, 1932, through June 30, 1933, to $722,017,000 for the year July 1, 1933, through June 30, 1934. The shipment figures were obtained from way-bills of four major railroads.

Modern Carry Nation Stirs Her Home Town

MEDICINE LODGE, Kan., May 12.—(P)—The spirit of Carry Nation, hatchet-wielding saloon smasher, walked anew today in her home town.

Mrs. J. D. Montgomery, 70, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Montgomery, swinging hammers, shattered glassware and fixtures in the depot cafe here last night.

Chief of Police Tom Kenney said the elder woman charged her sons, Frank Montgomery, 33, and Hal Montgomery, 35, had become infatuated several times on liquor purchased at the cafe.

Kenney said he had advised "Doc" Egbert, 33, operator of the cafe, not to file charges against the two women.

Travel Weary Pioneers Settle Down As CCC Boys Build Their Homes

(Copyright, 1935, for The Atlanta Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

MATANUSKA VALLEY, Alaska, May 12.—Weary after their long journey by land and sea from Minnesota, but well content, the first of the Alaska colonists are settling down happily in their new and strange surroundings.

The 66 Minnesota families that have come to this northern outpost to establish new homes with government aid have set up housekeeping in a spreading tent colony, and they will live under canvas until they erect their houses with the aid of the CCC workers who were sent here ahead of them.

At last these refugees, who sought so valiantly yet so fruitlessly to make a go of life in the States, are on the spot where their children will learn to say "inside" when they mean Alaska and "outside" when they mean any other place on earth.

Down in Seward, a newspaper printed a welcoming editorial, saying: "You are one of us now. The last wave of American westward migration has in Alaskan parishes, gone 'inside'."

What have these home-seekers found? They are in the midst of a region far more picturesque than built from the sale of lottery tickets. Harsh and barren, this will be of great help to these farmers in a strange land.

PASTOR PROPOSES LEGAL GAMBLING TO COMBAT CHAINS

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—(P)—Legalizing of gambling was suggested in a sermon today by the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, pastor of All Souls United Methodist church, as a preventive against such crazes as the "send-a-dime" chain letter fad which has swept the nation.

"Man is a gambling animal," Mr. Birkhead said. "Life is a gamble, a game of chance. The chain letter craze is convincing evidence of this."

With government control and supervision the evils now associated with gambling would tend to disappear and gambling would decline as a form of amusement. Now gambling is exploited by racketeers and selfish private interests."

Mr. Birkhead characterized the chain letter craze as "collective unreason, public frenzy, crowd psychosis and mob madness."

In advocating legalized gambling he asserted Columbia University was built from the sale of lottery tickets. Harvard has financed itself in the past through lotteries and churches have been built and supported by lottery devices.

HOLDING FIRM BAN FACES FLOOR TILT

Foes of Curbing Measure Prepare for Battle in Senate Today.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(P)—Beaten in committee, opponents of the bill to curb or abolish public utility holding companies figuratively backed out on the senate floor today to stage the next phase of a determined battle against the Roosevelt measure.

The redrafted bill, whittled upon by the committee for the past several days, was scheduled to come out in new dress Monday. But it still will contain the disputed section for abolishing holding companies by 1942 around which position has centered.

One senate opponent of the bill who was amazed by the 11-3 vote by which the holding company dissolution provision was approved by the senate interstate commerce committee, commented with a very grin that "Wheeler must have had the votes in his vest pocket all the time."

Wheeler, the committee chairman agreed during hearings that holding company systems wholly within one state or geographically integrated through several states should not be abolished if they performed financing, engineering and construction services. Those provisions have been written into the newly designed bill.

U. T. W. To Appeal Callaway Decision

Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, announced tonight that the organization would appeal to the National Labor Relations Board from the decision of the Textile Labor Relations Board in favor of the Callaway mills, La Grange, Ga., accused by the union of violation of Section 7-A.

The decision was announced yesterday, holding the union had not established a case of violation.

Read below what leading sports champions say about Camels

With the preference of star athletes overwhelmingly for one cigarette, that cigarette has to be exceptionally mild! Its name is well known to you—Camel. Here's what an Olympic champion diver, Harold ("Dutch") Smith, says about Camels: "I've found a great deal of pleasure in Camels. They never interfere with my mind." Rip Collins, of the St. Louis Cardinals, says: "Here's the best proof I know that Camels are mild: I can smoke them steadily, and they never get my wind."

Rowland Dufton, squash star of the New York A. C., says: "Squash is a game that requires A1 condition for tournament play. I've found that Camels are so mild I can smoke all I want, and they never upset my nerves or get my wind. That's what I call real mildness!"

Dick Shelton, world-champion steer dogger, says: "I must be sure the cigarettes I smoke are mild. Camels are very mild—don't get my wind." And those two brilliant golfers, Denny Shute and Helen Hicks, have come to the same conclusion—"Camels do not get my wind."

How this mildness is important to you too!

Camel smokers can smoke more—and enjoy smoking more, knowing that sports champions have found Camels so mild that they never jangle their nerves or get their wind.

YOUR OWN PHYSICAL CONDITION—your wind...your energy...the good health of your nerves—is important to you too. So remember this: Camels are so mild you can smoke all you want. Athletes say Camels never get their wind or nerves.

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE
ALL YOU WANT!

FARM MORTGAGES UP TO HIGH COURT

Supreme Tribunal Expected To Pass on Moratorium Act Today.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP)—A decision potentially affecting $12,000,000 in farm debts and further illuminating the supreme court's attitude toward various New Deal proposals is expected tomorrow from that tribunal.

It will say whether or not the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act is constitutional—whether the "due process" guarantee of the basic law is violated by an enforced reduction in the amount of a debt.

The court already has held a state law with some points of similarity, dropping to do so into the familiar five-to-four alignment which has come to be expected when issues involving the perennial liberal-conservative viewpoint are up for decision.

While supporters of the Frazier-Lemke act draw encouragement from the court's ruling sustaining the Minnesota mortgage moratorium law, the dissimilar points are giving them some uneasy moments.

The federal statute in question enables a farmer to prevent by court action foreclosure on a mortgage on his property for a period of five years. Meanwhile he pays a rental fee and is given an opportunity to discharge the debt in full upon payment of the farm's appraised value.

In the Minnesota case, the law merely increased from one year to three the period in which a farmer had the right to regain title by redemption of the mortgage. The act was phrased to expire automatically two years after enactment.

A majority of the court held that a state's authority to act in time of crisis for the good of all was paramount, but emphasized that the act was temporary.

The Frazier-Lemke law contains no expiration provision. Its supporters contended it sets up a valid method of easing farm debts through court procedure. But they eyed apprehensively the five-four decision of last Monday invalidating the railway pension act and hinting that a majority of the court is inclined to place a strictly literal interpretation upon the "due process" clause protecting property.

Dr. Lyons Uses British Rulers As Mother's Day Exemplars

DR. J. SPROLE LYONS.

Editor's Note: The Constitution this morning presents the 18th of a series of features dealing with Atlanta ministers and their services. On succeeding Monday mornings other clergymen will be shown in their pulpits, together with abstracts of their messages.

Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning preached on "Mother—the Joy of the Home, the Angel of the After Years." His text was Proverbs 31:10, 28 and 29. An abstract of his sermon follows:

"The Book of Proverbs is the most condensed and richest summary of human experience. The sayings which fill its chapters are like nuggets of gold, or precious jewels, which have for uncounted ages been rolled and ground and smoothed by the rushing and eddying of the river of Time.

"When we sit down to ponder and examine any of these proverbs it is truly 'The moment listening to the ages'.

"In the Proverbs inspiration reaches a very high degree of perfection. It is scarcely an accident that this wonderful book of Proverbs—a compendium on how to live right, should have as its concluding and crowning theme the Godly woman—a true wife, a loving mother—the patron saint of a happy home."

Shared by Father.
"The heart of our nation should be centered today against the temptation to place upon the patient wife the sole honor and responsibility for home and the rearing and training of children. I wish to serve notice that, while God gives to no one greater blessedness than to be a true wife and mother, it is a responsibility shared in full measure by the husband and father, by the authority of Him Who said of them whom He has joined together that 'They are no more twin, but one flesh,' and share fully and always in the duties which are due to children, and all family interests.

No avoidance of duty is more unworthy, or more morally cowardly, than the shifting of the training and upbringing of little children by a father to the shoulders of his wife."

"There is a welcome propriety and timeliness that, while we are enjoying the sentiments appropriate to the observance of Mother's Day, our hearts should be in tune with the British empire while they are joyfully celebrating the 25th anniversary of the reign of King George and Queen Mary. We have a right, as close kin of the English people, to rejoice with them in the great blessing this royal couple have been to the empire, and indeed to the world.

"The English people may have had sovereigns of equal power and devotion to their welfare, but it is safe to assert that royal honors and responsibilities have never been entrusted to a couple more worthy of respect and reverence than this God-fearing and faithful king and queen."

Symbol of Liberty.
"It is well worth while for us to consider this popular king in relation to the world-wide empire of which he is the official head. He has nothing of bluster, or boasting, or swagger, or saber-rattling in his character or conduct. He delivers no pompous orders to anybody. He avoids all unnecessary publicity, and is ever the modest, refined gentleman who wins the respect and confidence of all men everywhere. He is not a fuming and explosive expression of personal pride, nor of a national ambition. But he is a constitutional monarch! He is the sign and symbol of the priceless liberty and rights of every citizen of the British empire. He does not have to strut and pose in order to create an impression. He lives within his constitutional limitations, and by doing so greatly enhances his own significance and the welfare of all citizens in the empire. He reigns, but does not govern. He has lived through a period when empires were crumbling, and kings and other proud rulers were toppling into oblivion. But King George and Queen Mary have walked the highway of personal honor, have illustrated the grace of a Christian home when it has so often been far otherwise in royal palaces and high social places.

"So, today we do well to thank God for their clean, devout, industrious and helpful lives, and to pray that Almighty God may long spare them to a devoted nation and an admiring world."

"And may the good will revived between Great Britain and America, which is consciously revived at this time, make it all the easier for these two English-speaking nations to be joint promoters of universal good will and peace to a troubled world."

"It is safe for me to say that no husband and wife within our knowledge, in high place or low, have walked together, and been as one, in all public and private life, more completely and more happily than these refined, God-fearing and happy people, who in our plain but sincere way of speaking, we call George and Mary! God bless them, as we thank God for them!"

Bartenders in 'Bone Dry' Georgia Worried on Repeal Vote Result

By GLENN RAMSEY, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Bartenders in "bone-dry" Georgia are downright worried.

They can't figure out what will happen to them if voters in Wednesday's repeal referendum retain the strict prohibitive statutes of 1907.

With many municipalities licensing the sale of the amber brew by ordinance, despite the law, beer bars sprung up overnight and positions dispensing the stuff apparently had some semblance of security for the first time in 27 years.

Beer has been sold openly most everywhere for more than a year without appreciable molestation by the authorities. In some cities government-stamped liquor can be purchased over the dining table.

Streets, especially in Atlanta, glow with bright signs of all brands of the brew.

Employment for Many.
Behold, shiny new and old bars stand white-aproned men ready to "draw one" for five, ten or fifteen cents. The business is a good one and has provided employment for many old-timers as well as youngsters just learning the trade.

The proprietor of one of Atlanta's most successful beer spots said that if the people defeated wines, beer and outright repeal at the same time, he would have to go out of business or move to a wet state.

If the state does refuse to legalize beer, another Atlanta bartender believes that Mayor Key, who wants a municipal liquor store regardless of what the state does as a whole, will permit them to stay in business.

Fighting All Three.
Georgia's prohibition forces have been making their fight against all three issues in Wednesday's election—repeal, wines and beer.

The people will vote on them separately, as far as the marking of the ballot is concerned, but the prohibitionists have asked all their adherents to vote against all three.

The beer dealers, having formed an association, have been conducting what they describe as an educational campaign. Their posters claim the

DEKALB TAX OFFICER BACKS DIGEST MOVE

Howard To Accept Intangibles at Reduced Assessments to May 3d.

Full co-operation of DeKalb county taxing authorities with the movement to have all intangibles placed voluntarily on the tax digest by May 31 was announced yesterday by H. H. Howard, tax commissioner of DeKalb county.

Commissioner Howard said investigation of the amount of intangibles not returned in DeKalb county had produced much information and would be resumed immediately after the period of grace.

His statement assured 100 per cent co-operation of tax authorities in the Atlanta area, similar pledges having been made by Atlanta and Fulton county officials, and gave renewed impetus to the movement of civic and business leaders to have intangible property returned voluntarily.

The high confiscatory tax rate on intangibles, forcing many large owners of this class of property to other states where the rate is reasonable, prompted launching of the movement.

Its objectives include equalization of the tax burden, relief of the homeowner from the burden of a high real estate tax, and a better understanding between local governments and citizens. It was felt that all citizens, if given an opportunity to do so, would give evidence of their willingness to pay a reasonable rate on this property by responding to the appeal to file returns by May 31, regardless of whether they own many or few intangibles.

Commissioner Howard's statement follows:

"DeKalb county is in full co-operation with the movement to have intangibles placed on the tax digest voluntarily by property owners and, like Fulton county and the city of Atlanta, has fixed May 31 as the final day for receiving word."

"During that period, cash will be assessed at five cents on the dollar, taxable stocks and bonds at 15 per cent, first mortgages at 25 per cent, and second mortgages at 15 per cent."

"Immediately after the period of Last Saturday's headlines in the first page of this paper certainly carried a welcome bit of news to conservationists of the state. The fact that $2,100,000 will be spent in Georgia counties on soil erosion control should strike a responsive note in the hearts of all of us, for we as a nation are a people of the soil. Curtailment of waste of soil is the most vital problem of our conservation in our state. We have no dust storms, but I can assure you that it is not our fault. We have certainly denuded the land so that erosion by water goes forward at a terrific pace.

The roily red rivers of the south are a standing monument to our thoughtlessness and profligacy. The Chattahoochee never runs clear, nor does the Savannah, and the thousands of tributary creeks that feed our larger rivers are swollen and muddy after every rain, while hundreds of thousands of cubic yards of our most precious possessions are hurled oceanward, to be lost forever to our use.

The rebuilding of this soil is the problem next to be attacked but this will be done, of course, as a part of the control work. Plantings of all sorts would serve to stop the erosion, and in time to come these same plantings will renew the ground litter. Fallen leaves and decaying undergrowth will combine to form a mold on the floors of maturing forests. Slowly this litter will mix with the soil to build up a loam again, which will hold water and save what we have heretofore been exceedingly thoughtless in using; so much so, in fact, that our relationships with the land have been those of abuse instead of uses. The situation is by no means hopeless for having a clear Chattahoochee again, and may the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Soil Erosion Service and the United States army be given all the help possible by the people of this state, who will undoubtedly be the first ones to benefit from this work.

One of the magnificent things about such work is the fact that problems are studied from every possible angle. The United States does not undertake a development for one purpose exclusively. There is certain to be a lot of consideration given to the wild life of the areas which will be reconstructed. Plantings, in other words, will not be made purely for the purpose of controlling erosion but for the improvement of the environment for the benefit of wild life. Dr. Ernest G. Holt, the only member of the service whom I have yet met, gives me the idea that this will be given careful treatment.

grace has expired, we will continue our investigations to place on the digest all intangibles that have not been returned voluntarily.

"Our previous investigations have revealed considerable information on which we reserve the right to act."

"However, those who make voluntary returns naturally will be given every consideration."

For the convenience of taxpayers, C. C. Bell has opened an office at the city hall near that of J. C. Little, of the Atlanta board of tax assessors, and thus returns both for Fulton county and the city of Atlanta can be made at city hall. Those who make returns for Fulton county only should, of course, go to the court house, while DeKalb county residents should file returns with Commissioner Howard in Decatur.

FILIPINOS TO VOTE ON U.S. PLAN TODAY

Violence at Polls Feared as Island Decides Independence Issue.

MANTILA, May 13.—(Monday)—Continuing rumors of impending violence kept the Philippine constabulary on the jump today, the eve of the plebiscite in which Filipinos will go to the polls and accept or reject the American offer of independence.

Automobile trucks were halted on the outskirts of Manila and elsewhere and searched for arms.

Public meetings were banned in Bulacan province, one of the scenes of disorder in the recent Sakdalista uprisings which resulted in 60 persons being slain.

Interior Secretary Teodoro Sison announced all polling places would be guarded tomorrow. He called attention to a law providing imprisonment for one month to five years for interfering with an election.

Observers said some of the 200,000 women registered for the election would remain away from the polls for fear of violence. Women will vote tomorrow for the first time in Philippine history.

Although a light vote was predicted, authorities everywhere expressed confidence that the Filipinos would ballot overwhelmingly in favor of independence 10 years hence and acceptance of a commonwealth constitution to serve as a foundation of government during a transitional period.

Out of a population of about 14,000,000 in the islands, the registration aggregated only 1,700,000. Most observers predicted about half the registrants would cast ballots.

The only organized opposition to the commonwealth plan was expected from the Sakdalistas, who want immediate independence but who reportedly can muster no more than 20,000 votes, and from the subprovince of Lanao on Mindanao island, inhabited largely by Moros.

Acting Governor General Joseph R. Hayden visited Bulacan province and learned 90 persons, suspected of being Sakdalistas, had been arrested when found assembled in a cave. They were released when they proved they were members of a religious group and had gathered in the cave because public meetings were prohibited.

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. William Fisch, chairman; Mrs. DeLois Hill and Mrs. Lester L. Shivers, gave its report. Mrs. Ernest Outley was elected president; Mrs. Arthur Wisberg, vice president; Mrs. Marion Moore, recording secretary; and Mrs. James Stanley Moore, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Arthur Wisberg, representing the circle, paid high tribute to Mrs. James Stanley Moore, retiring president, for her work of nurturing interest in behalf of the circle. She presented her a handsome handbag.

The circle is an unusual organization, of limited membership. The work for charity covers a wide field. The circle owns and maintains the Memorial Hospital on the grounds of the Atlanta Childs Home, on Hightower street. The members maintain the milk kitchen at Eggleston Memorial hospital and contribute to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, in many ways.

First president of the Vacant Chair circle was Mrs. Julian Chambers, succeeded by the following: Mesdames William Fisch, James R. Gray Jr. and James Stanley Moore. Mesdames T. T. Ballenger, Lester L. Shivers, DeLois Hill, Ewing Dean, William A. Smith, Donald Eastman, James R. Gray Jr., and Mrs. Marion Wisberg Jones, William Fisch, Allan Artley, J. P. Armstrong, Willis Callaway, Ernest Outley and James Stanley Moore. Honorary members include Mrs. Joseph Fisch and Mrs. Marion Moore. Special guests for Thursday were Mesdames A. O. Woodward, Willis Ludwick, William J. Poole and A. L. Starr.

Culbertson on Contract

Card Analyst
By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest

A Real Approach.

When partners find strength in their combined hands upon the first round of the auction, there is no need to rush into a final contract. Plenty of time can be used for conveying of information for the purpose of reaching the right contract. This is all important as many slams are made, if properly reached, but may be missed if every available bit of bidding information is not utilized.

A LAYDOWN.

Most slam hands should be played in a suit rather than in notrump, in order that tricks may be developed by ruffing. The hand below, however, was played in notrump rather than at six clubs because North was anxious to have the opening lead come up to the strong South hand.

South, Dealer		North-South vulnerable
♠ 9	♥ 8 3	♠ 10 7 3	♥ 7 6
♦ 3 2	♣ K Q J 8 7 4	♦ 10 9 4 2	♣ 10 8 6 4
♠ J 5 4	♥ A K 6 2	♠ A Q 5	♥ 3 2
♦ 10 6 5	♣ A K 9 7	♦ A	♣ J

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠(1)	Pass	3♠(2)	Pass
4NT(3)	Pass	6♠	Pass
5♥(4)	Pass	6NT(5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—With more than five honor-tricks, South feels sure, after his partner has responded to the opening bid, that a game can be made.

2—A rebid of the club suit would push matters home too far. The preference for hearts is shown by the four-card heart holding should not be spurned.

3—The immediate bid of four notrump is excellent. It avoids a misfit. Were South to show his preference for hearts, or rebid his spades, with notrump, and if the final contract was notrump, an opening lead through the diamond holding might be fatal. It is imperative that the notrump contract be played by the South.

4—After North's weak response to the four-notrump bid, South can do no better than to show his preference of North's two suits and leave the rest to North.

5—A very fine bid, based on the natural inference from South's leap to four notrump, South has no hesitation in going to a slam and he naturally chooses a notrump contract to protect the possible tenace holdings in spades and diamonds in the South hand.

The Play. Of course, the slam was a laydown, as there were 12 top tricks without a finesse—six in clubs, four in hearts and two in spades. If the hand had been played at six clubs, East might have opened a diamond. In this case West would have taken the setting tricks before North could get the lead.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

What is the best contract for North and South in the hand above? See tomorrow's article for the answer.

Mr. Culbertson will send to any reader who will enclose a self-addressed stamped (3 cent) envelope with request, a booklet containing the new rules and discussing the etiquette of contract. The request should be addressed to Ely Culbertson, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest are discussed by readers with the columnist. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

The young man's father had died, his mother much reduced in circumstances had to take him out of college, and put him to work. It was a bitter pill to them because he had been a good student and was ambitious to take his degree. One day a friend of the family met him on the street and inquired: "Well, my boy, how are you getting along with your job?" "Pretty fair," replied the boy, "but my job doesn't amount to much."

The older man put his hand on the shoulder of the younger one, looked sympathetically into his eyes and said, "Son, I am afraid you have the wrong attitude toward your work. The way you rate your job has more to do with your success than anything else. You can never give your best to it when you think it doesn't amount to much."

One of the charming traits of childhood is the eager interest and enthusiasm children bring to their games. Whether it be digging a grave for a dead bird and decorating it with flowers, or giving a tea-party for her dolls, it is the important business of life to the little girl. If a grown-up passing by accidentally kicks the flowers off or mows down the tea-party, she is a guest that has been dropped along the leg of a chair, she is annoyed with the interloper for minimizing the dignity of the occasion. She belittles her job and resents any implications that others take it lightly.

So eager is the little boy to keep his eyes and his hands on the ball that he is bound to be a bit impatient. He is impatient in a game, that he will run out into the street after it, utterly oblivious of the speeding automobiles that race down his street. Concentration on the game and enthusiasm in this play are characteristics of childhood and when these traits are carried over into maturity they spell success.

Two boys go to college and both come out with degrees, though only one of them has an education. The difference lies in their respective attitudes toward their books. One went to college because it was the logical place to go after he had finished high school. There were fraternities with the strenuous social life and football with its week-end trips and all sorts of things to absorb his interest. He saw text-books and classrooms as necessary evils to be disposed of as quickly as possible. He finished with the diploma in his pocket but with little in his head. Whereas the other one, realizing the importance of preparing himself for life, buckled down to his books, mastered his text-books and came out with an education. College is like the office job. The boy takes out as he puts in, and he puts in as he values its advantages.

Perhaps the housewife has the greatest temptation to minimize the importance of her job. She picks up the daily paper, reads some daring woman has flown an ocean, written a best-seller, been elected to congress or accomplished some social reform. By comparison with these sensational news bits, dish-washing and bed-making don't rate very high. But if she does discount the importance of the homely tasks, she kills her inspiration, dulls her imagination to the point that her work becomes drudgery, or is neglected, which is worse. The spotless house, the dainty table, the well ordered household is the work of a woman who thinks her job amounts to a great deal.

"Work," says a man of affairs, "has never yet failed to yield a dividend and when I hear of a man who has failed I always think he didn't believe in his work, love it and stick to it." The heads of some of our largest industries are men who began as office boys and rose to the top because they saw their jobs written in large letters. Many of our important railroad presidents began with lowly positions. The shining rails that stretched beyond their vision lured them on. They now ride in private cars over roads where formerly they worked as laborers, section hands or brakemen.

Does your job amount to much, reader? It doesn't amount to more than your rating of it and it will never be bigger than you make it. It can amount to much if you will put into it the same work, imagination and enthusiasm that you once put into the make-believe games you played on the floor, and in the yard of your childhood's home.

Eyebrow Pencil Is Essential

By MIGNON.
It's not the fashion now to wear thin-line eyebrows, and the insane idea some women had that they should shave theirs off entirely and draw them on with a pencil is not in use.

Get the color that is the nearest like your own eyebrows—because, after all, people are usually born with the right hair coloring—and stick to it. You have no idea what a difference it will make in your appearance, if the line of the eyebrow is too short, to extend it a tiny bit at the end with a thin pencil line.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There's a very good pencil of just the right consistency with which it is very easy to shape a deficient eyebrow. The sharpened end is covered with a small metal cap, which protects it from the dust and dirt when it is not in use.

NANCY PAGE

The Class Has a Graduation Garden Party

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

The Lacey girls had become well acquainted with a group of girls who lived in a nearby small town. They visited back and forth in the summer but saw little of each other during the school year.

But social amenities were kept up—there were gifts at Christmas time, cards for birthdays and holidays. And now one of the girls was graduating. She had been selected as chairman of the commencement day festivities and was writing to Claire wondering whether she or Nancy Page could offer any suggestions. She said they wanted to have something different and yet not too expensive. They had used crepe paper decorations, the last year, went on to say, for the class night parties and hoped they could do something else for graduation.

After conference with Nancy, Claire wrote to her friend Jessica and suggested a garden party or garden tea after the exercises. "The commencement may be held at 1 o'clock. Then after you have left the auditorium or church you can go directly to some garden loaned by a parent or resident of the town. Have gay umbrellas and chairs if you can get them. Let them be in sixteen very likely or you can dye unbleached muslin. Put the class numbers on in colored felt or heavy paper.

Former Georgian, 'Typical Mother,' Given Medal by Mother of F. D. R.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the president, presented a silver medal today to Mrs. Fletcher M. Johnson, of Irvington, N. Y., selected by the Golden Rule Foundation as the "typical American mother for 1935."

Mrs. Johnson, who formerly lived in Gainesville, Ga., accepted the medal not for herself alone but for millions of American mothers who are making our land a great nation.

A small, slight woman in lavender dress and black straw hat, Mrs. Johnson seemed unworried by the round of church-going, picture-taking, and speech-making of her role. She smiled and said she was "enjoying it very much."

Told of the charge of "Uncle Robert" Spero, children's party giver, that Mother's Day was a "vicious racket," she agreed that "a day when fathers and mothers could be honored together" would be better.

Charles V. Vickrey, president of the foundation, said that in Mrs. Johnson's case the word "typical" should be changed to "ideal," since "typical" mother might require cocktails.

Mrs. Johnson was formerly dean of women at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga. She is the mother of Hammond Johnson, of Gainesville; Edward Johnson, of Ocala, Fla.; Fletcher Johnson, of Seneca, S. C.; William Dunbar, of Augusta, Ga.; Douglas Johnson and the late Mrs. Marion Gilchrist of Irvington, and she has 14 grandchildren.

PRUDENTIAL AGENCY IN ATLANTA RANKS HIGH

F. M. Akers Jr., manager of the Atlanta agency of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, recently returned from a conference of the company's managers held at the home office, at which meeting some interesting facts were disclosed. It was pointed out that the surplus funds which life insurance companies accumulate above their contractual reserves are for the purpose of protecting the company and the policyholders in times of stress and strain, and during financial emergencies. They were for just such emergencies as were created in the great depression of 1930 to 1934, a time unparalleled in financial history, and it would seem that if ever this surplus would have been needed it would have been during this period.

It was, therefore, interesting to note that the Prudential has not used one dollar of this accumulated surplus, but on the contrary has added during these five years more than $75,000,000 to its surplus funds in spite of having written down to a most conservative basis during that period any of its assets which may have shrunk in value. It was shown further that while market value is not necessarily an important test of the security holdings of a life insurance company, nevertheless, the market value of the entire security holdings of the Prudential is larger today than the figure at which they are carried on the books.

As a further illustration of the remarkable strength of the life insurance companies, it was pointed out that during this five-year period the Prudential had distributed more than $400,000,000 in dividends to its policyholders, which dividends were distributed because the company could safely do so, but which could have been withheld had it not been for the fact that the Prudential now has insured one out of every six persons in the United States and Canada.

The Atlanta agency, of which Mr. Akers is manager, ranks in sixth place among the Prudential agencies this year, being exceeded only by agencies located in New York city and Chicago. The 1934 business of the Atlanta agency showed an increase of 80 per cent over the 1933 figures and for the first three months of 1935 the business of the agency was up 89 per cent over the same period for 1934.

BREAK O'DAY!

HAVANA, CUBA, May 10.—(By Air Mail.)—"Over there," he said, "it was just over there." And he pointed to a spot on the green waters of the harbor on the port side of the ship as we went slowly into the harbor of Havana.

Three times now I have seen that section of the harbor pointed out. And never yet has that curious, choking feeling failed to come to make the spine stiffen and the scalp tingle.

"There" was where the Maine went down on the night of February 15, 1898, taking 253 men and officers to death, while on the shore the Spanish crowds rushed to the walls and began to yell.

"Death to the Americans. Long live Weyler."

The explosion, which never was solved, blew up the last vestige of strength in the Spanish crown which even then was on the wane. It brought Schley and the gray ships to Cuba. It brought men to die like flies at Tampa and in Cuba of bad food and yellow jack. But it brought enough of them so that the Spanish flag was driven from the island.

And so, there is to an American, something majestically solemn about it, to pass through the harbor. There is always someone to point and say, "Over there, just over there, is where it happened."

Far down at the end of the island is another harbor where Hobson sank his ship and where another Roosevelt landed his men for the charge at San Juan hill. There is much here to make an American proud. And much, too, to cause him sorrow.

MORO CASTLE.

They were at the rail long before there was anything on the horizon other than a small dot. But the faces of the Cubans at the rail were rapt, excited.

They knew that dot would grow and become Morro castle, and Morro to them is more of a symbol even than their flag. It was there many of their patriots died. It was there they saw, for the first time, their own flag go up the standard, a flag new to the world, a Cuban flag.

I recall a year ago coming to Cuba. There were some political refugees going home then and they stood there at the rail, gripping it until their knuckles were white. And when Morro castle began to loom up they talked to each other excitedly, the tears streaming down their faces.

There is something eternal about that pile of gray stones with the watch-tower above them. Their guns are rusty now. The famous battery of the "Twelve Apostles" rusts in the rain and the sun. It is a military school and prison now, but it is, nevertheless, eternal.

It was built four centuries ago. The hill on which it stands saw Columbus and the Santa Maria. The castle itself saw the swarming crews of pirates; saw Drake come into the harbor and go away, his crews weakened by scurvy and disease; saw the French colors fly in the harbor and over Havana, in 1500, saw the English flag fly over the city for a year, and was itself manned by English troops in 1700.

Hundreds of men have been done to death. I saw some years ago the old trap door which, when opened, discloses a sheer drop of 100 feet to the harbor below. And on quiet days when there is no ripple in the water, one can see the sharks there.

It is about 400 years old, that fort. And it is to Cubans a symbol of freedom and of the lasting qualities of freedom. Which is curious when one considers the torture chambers which were in it and which were used as late as two years ago when Gerardo Machado was president. And when his "Porro" roamed the city.

CHIEF HATUEY.

There are no native Cubans left. There has been none for centuries. The Spanish civilization saw to that. The Spaniard civilized with the sword, the gun and the faggot.

And a lad named Diego Velequez, who roamed here in 1511, did a pretty good job of killing, and those who followed him completed it. By 1527 there were no native Cubans left. Not a one. They were importing slaves to dig for gold. The Spanish were rather vigorous with their civilization. We have got a few hundred thousand Indians living in our country, although our record there is something about which to keep quiet.

But the character I like best in those old days was an Indian chief named Hatuey. He knocked off a few of the Spaniards and they captured him later and tied him to the stake. They kindled the fire and lit it.

They offered him life if he would accept religion and told him he would go to heaven if he died.

"Will there be Spaniards there?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," they told him.

"Let me burn," he said, and burn, he did. I don't think he cared for the Spaniards.

The Cubans have named a beer after him, and Hatuey beer is a very good seller, one of the best, in fact. And so it comes that his name is remembered.

DANA, OF THE SUN.

It was an American newspaper man, Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, who first interested Americans in the plight of Cuba during the reign of "Butcher" Weyler. Weyler's idea was that to rid one's self of trouble, and that to do so one should eliminate the cause. The cause of trouble was the Cuban people.

It was then that Laurel ditch, in front of the Cabana fortress, literally ran with blood of those executed by Spanish troops. You may go there now and see the plaque to the heroes who died.

It was Cuba's George Washington, Jose Julian Marti, who went to New York and interested Dana in the fate of his country.

Marti lives because of his deeds and his writings. I like two of his statements about independence and war. He said:

"He is a criminal who promotes an evitable war and he also who avoids an inevitable one."

And of independence he said:

"The independence of a people consists in the respect which the public powers show toward each and every one of its sons."

Which makes our own government look very good. It is working along that plan.

L. S. U. LIKELY TO WIN TRACK TITLE AGAIN

Other Conference Teams Given Little Chance To Beat Tigers.

By Kenneth Gregory.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 12.—(AP)—A general assault on recognized track and field records looms as the speed kings and sturdy weight men of the Southeastern conference turn their attention to the annual meet here next Friday and Saturday.

Several established marks are likely to fall, as the performances of some of the conference track athletes are taken as a criterion.

Louisiana State University, triumphant in the annual carnival for the last two years, apparently is headed for its third consecutive victory with such noted performers as Glenn "Slats" Hardin and Nathan "Buddy" Blair carrying the colors for a formidable Tiger squad.

Other members of the big thirteen, especially Alabama, Alabama Polytechnic University, Georgia Tech, Georgia Tech, stack up as point-winners but can hardly be classed as threats to the supremacy of the Baton Rouge contingent.

HARDIN SUPREME.

"Slats" Hardin, the Tiger speed marvel who holds the world record of 50.6 for the 400-meter hurdles and has won the National A. U. crown in that event for three straight years, may better his established marks of 23.3 seconds for the 220-yard low hurdles and 46.8 seconds for the 440-yard dash.

The Tigers from Louisiana are favored to win the mile relay with little trouble. L. S. U. established the conference record of 3:22.8 for the event in 1933 and repeated last year in 3:22.6 with Ted O'Neil, southern A. U. 800-meter record holder; Clabo Roberts, Ted Black, and Hardin handling the Baton, the Baton Rouge quartet should come through easily.

Alabama State has a potential point winner in the javelin throw in "Buddy" Blair, who won the event last spring with a toss of 109 feet, two and three-fourths inches, but was short of the conference record of 203 feet, set by Batchelor, of Georgia, in 1933. Blair has thrown the spear more than 200 feet this year.

The Tigers will be without the services of one of the school's greatest track stars, "Baby" Jack Torrance, 300-pound giant who established marks of 53 feet, 6-1/2 inches in the shot put and 149 feet, 1-1/2 inches in the discus. Torrance recently hurled the 12-pound shot to a new world record of 62 feet, 1-1/4 inch in the Penn relays.

SAFE RECORDS.

Torrance's records in these two events, as well as the remarkable broad jump mark of 25 feet, 6-3/4 inches made by Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech, in 1928, appear safest to escape the attack of this year's athletes.

Tulane's "human bullet," Herman Neaguss, who lost a close decision to Elmer Peacock, Temple's versatile negro star, in the Penn relays in the 100-meter dash, is an outstanding favorite in the 100-yard dash. The Green Wave speedster has been in the lead in this spring and has a favorable mark of 9.6 made by Perrin Walker, of Georgia Tech, last year. Walker is in the lead in this season.

Neaguss also looms as a formidable contender for honors in the 220-yard dash. In last year's meet he was barely nudged by DuPre of Auburn, who set up a new record of 21 seconds for the distance.

A "one-man team" will represent Tennessee in the contest of Harry Anderson, a junior from Memphis, who specializes in the dashes and the high and broad jumps. He has raced the century in 9.8, high-jumped over 52 feet and broad-jumped well over 22 feet in early meets.

OTHER STARS.

Among others who are likely to collect points are:

Kern Riegel, of Alabama, in the pole vault. Riegel has bettered 13 feet this spring and may establish a new conference mark.

Captain Carl Pihl, of Alabama Polytechnic, in the mile run. Pihl won this event last year in 4 minutes, 20.4 seconds, but was considerably short of the conference record of 4 minutes, 22.7 seconds made by Stout, of Tennessee, in 1933.

Spee Townes, of Georgia, a sophomore in the high hurdles. Townes looked good in winning this event in the A. U. meet at Charlotte several weeks ago.

All 13 schools are expected to be represented in the meet, and many will send freshmen for competition in the first annual event held by the conference for first-year men.

Fred Jacoby Wins Outdoor Marathon

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—Overcoming the hazards of rough water, a strong northeasterly wind and floating driftwood, Fred Jacoby, 35-year-old scenic artist of North Bergen, N. J., today won the eighth annual Albany-to-New York outdoor motorboat marathon in the Hudson river. The victory gained Jacoby $200 and the Hayes-Griffin trophy.

The Jerseyite, second highest scorer in the American professional ran's last year, was third when the field reached Poughkeepsie, the halfway mark, after a grueling battle with tide and wind.

Below Poughkeepsie the tide was running with him and the wind had subsided, thus enabling Jacoby to pick up speed and subsequently meet Arthur Baldwin, of Prepost, L. I., and Ted Roberts, New York pro.

Marti lives because of his deeds and his writings. I like two of his statements about independence and war. He said:

"He is a criminal who promotes an evitable war and he also who avoids an inevitable one."

And of independence he said:

"The independence of a people consists in the respect which the public powers show toward each and every one of its sons."

Which makes our own government look very good. It is working along that plan.

Miss Walsh To Run Against Young Ace

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—(AP)—Stella Walsh, of Cleveland, Ohio, Olympic sprinter and holder of several track records, will renew her rivalry with Helen Stephens, 17-year-old track star from Fulton, Mo., in a special 80-meter dual race at the Ozark A. A. U. girls' outdoor track and field meet here June 1.

Dr. Norman F. Rathbert, president of the St. Louis Athletic Club, sponsor of the meet, said the Polish-American runner had wired a notice of an invitation to compete. She lost a 50-meter race to the Fulton High school girl, then unknown, during the national A. A. U. indoor meet here last March.

Parnee Scores Fourth Straight Victory as Giants Beat Pirates, 3-1

NEW YORK ACE ALLOWS BUCS ONLY FOUR HITS

Big Jim Weaver Proves No Mystery to Gotham Hitters.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—Roy Parnee continued to pitch in unbeatable form today, limiting the Pirates to four hits while the Giants captured a 3-1 victory in the series final before 19,692 Sunday fans. The league leaders took the series, 3-1.

It was Parnee's fourth straight victory after he opened the season's pitching campaign by participating in a tie game and his fourth successive low-hit game. In his four winning efforts the big right-hander has allowed only 17 hits in all. He lost his chance for his first shutout today by passing Pinch Hitter Red Lunsford with the bases full in the eighth inning.

Big Jim Weaver proved no mystery to the New Yorkers. They found him for nine hits in his seven-inning stay on the mound, bunching five of them in the fifth and sixth frames for all their runs. In addition the Giants stole three bases on Tommy Padden, two of which were converted into runs.

Parnee himself started the Giants' scoring in the fifth when he doubled and stole home on Dick Bartlett's single. In the next inning Mel Ott beat out an infield hit, stole second and scored on Hughey Critz's second hit of the game. Critz then pitched second, and the final Giant run on Gus Mancuso's single.

For the first seven innings Parnee didn't let a Pittsburgh runner get past second base but he weakened a trifle in the eighth when wildness caught up with him. The Pittsburgh outfield gave a great defensive exhibition. Woody Jensen made two great catches and a fine throw to catch Joe Moore at the plate while Paul Waner pulled down one drive from Bill Terry's bat that looked like a sure triple.

Another outstanding achievement of architectural and mechanical skill is presented in the Eternit Colonial Timberex siding, for which the Ellis Roofing Company, with offices at 61 Forsyth street, N. Roofing Company, 686 Greenwood avenue, N. E., is exclusive dealer in the Atlanta territory. For years the charm and beauty of the wood shingle has been recognized in American residential architecture. This style of siding is available in a material that is fireproof and durable to the extent of being virtually everlasting.

Eternit colonial siding is made of two fireproof and practically indestructible materials, Portland cement reinforced with carefully selected asbestos fibers. These two ingredients are combined by a unique building-up process, layer upon layer, producing a siding of remarkable strength and resiliency. This siding is finally subjected to tremendous hydraulic pressure, giving it a great density, so that it is waterproof as well as fireproof and practically impervious to the effects of time and the elements. Eternit is truly an ageless product, as the name implies.

Colonial siding is made in three beautiful colors, which are produced by the use of pure mineral oxides mixed right in with the mass of cement and asbestos fibers. Thus the color is an integral part of the finished siding and is lasting in quality as well as beautiful in appearance.

Eternit colonial Timberex siding offers real economy in the absolute elimination of paint bills and other upkeep costs. Being fireproof, it provides added fire protection.

Colonial Timberex siding can be applied right over clapboards or wood shingle siding with no little or inconvenience. The new siding over the old gives the house double insulation, which means a cooler home in summer and warmer in winter. This is an important factor in keeping fuel costs down to a minimum. This siding is so designed that perfect alignment and absolutely tight nailing are assured.

Colonial Timberex siding, as well as other products of the Ruberoid Company are available from the Ellis Roofing Company, which is glad to make estimates without obligation for complete installations on the federal housing plan, which permits payments to run for a period of three years. The first payment is due 30 days after the work is completed.

IT'S THE SELLING VALUE OF YOUR ADVERTISING THAT COUNTS LYON-YOUNG PRINTING COMPANY 226-232 LUCKIE STREET Jackson 3428 ATLANTA, GEORGIA

DEFINITE TRENDS IN ADVERTISING
AID TO PRODUCER*Lyon-Young Executive
Gives Clearcut Outline of Value and Need of Direct-Mail Printing.

Trends in advertising are as definite as trends in literature or in fashion, declares Arthur C. Gruver, manager of sales of the Lyon-Young Printing Company, 232 Luckie street, N. W. The constant development of new and improved items of merchandise, to be presented to a new buying public, he asserts, has compelled the manufacturer or distributor to realize that this trend in advertising has been toward a more complete understanding to the consumer of the commodity advertised or the intent of the direct-mail message.

Direct mail, while still striving for faultlessness, is meeting increasing favor to reach these "markets on the march." Selling is characterized by a continuous, endless change in the affairs of people and business. Each sun-up creates an avalanche of human needs, Mr. Gruver adds.

"Modern merchandising," he continues, "must anticipate these transactions; must even stimulate them. The scene of the direct-mail message shift, but the selling act is continuous, with the printed word an important factor. Well-planned advertising in synchronism to opportunity for both advertiser and consumer."

We are often asked: "What is the purpose of this direct-mail advertising?" The purpose of well-planned direct-mail advertising sent directly to the firm or individual you want to reach, is the short cut to deliver your message or, in other words, to "put your message across."

"Direct-by-mail, the resourceful, will interpret," says Mr. Gruver. "It will relay the good news and record in a permanent manner the story of your institution or your product."

"Every age crystallizes its particular character into a style—a style of dress, of living and entertaining; a style of business and of transportation—and to the mirrors of our times we are adding a powerful new note to make today livable, all important to life and to the pursuit of happiness and business."

"A broadcast over the radio, a page advertisement in the daily newspaper, a personal solicitation to each prospective buyer, a well-planned booklet or brochure delivered or mailed directly to those whom we desire to reach—all advertising—each through a different type of appeal."

The future of the printed word, Mr. Gruver concludes, is assured. The enormous increase of advertising printing has advanced the art of printing to the position of a dominating factor in human affairs.

Thousands in Atlanta Find Roselle's Work Unexcelled

Members of the highly skilled staff of hat craftsmen are shown here at work at the 35 Forsyth street, N. W., shop of Roselle, the Hatter. No destructive acids are used in work entrusted to Roselle, the Hatter, and experienced hat men and the most modern, approved machinery insure workmanship of the highest quality available.

The value and the popularity of the parcel post service offered by Roselle, the Hatter, at 35 Forsyth street, N. W., is clearly reflected in the increasing number of panama hats being sent from out-of-town points for cleaning and renovating.

With spring definitely here and with April showers now past, summer headgear, especially panama hats, is becoming more and more widely adopted. Both men's and women's straw hats and panamas, and many light summer felts, are coming out of winter storage and being put in condition for the hot months to come. Many hundreds of these already have gone and thousands more will go, during the next few weeks, to Roselle, the Hatter, for reconditioning and cleaning.

Roselle, the Hatter, equipped by a lifetime of experience in hat making, cleaning and renovating, is prepared to execute workmanship of the finest quality. The most modern machinery, much of it perfected and patented by Tony Roselle, proprietor of the shop, in the ground floor of the Palmer building, and by his father, founder of the nationally known Roselle, the Hatter, manufacturing concern in Louisville, makes possible highly specialized workmanship such as is impossible in the "hurry-up" hat cleaning establishments which dot every city.

Only absolutely odorless and non-injurious chemicals are employed by Roselle, the Hatter, in the cleaning of panamas, straws and felts. No destructive acids are employed in this work.

Agents of Roselle, the Hatter, are scattered in cities and towns throughout Georgia and neighboring states, and hats may be sent in through these agents, or personally, by parcel post. The same high quality of work is assured for all out-of-town customers, who thus are enabled to avail themselves of the finest work available anywhere. It is as easy to send a hat to Roselle, the Hatter, by parcel post as to take it to the nearest "hurry-up" shop. It is returned thoroughly cleaned and renovated, packed securely to prevent any possible chance of damage in transit.

Mr. Roselle invites his friends throughout the southeast—as well as in Atlanta—to avail themselves of this special service to have their summer headgear put in A-1 condition for the hot months.

BRUCE TERMINIX
POINTS TO PERIL
OF FLYING ANTS*Winged Insects, Declares
W. H. Sullivan, Are Parents of Highly Destructive Termites.

When flying ants swarm, as they may be seen doing in almost any part of the city at this time of the year, it is high time to give thought to the vast destruction their descendants, the termites, will wreak in the months to come, declares W. H. Sullivan, Georgia manager of the Bruce Terminix Company, which maintains offices at 110 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E.

The appearance of these small, blackish, white-winged insects is a challenge, Mr. Sullivan asserts, which should be met instantly.

These so-called flying ants, he points out, are not true ants, nor are they the termites which leave ruin and destruction in their wake. They are the parent termites and while swarming are on their way to start new colonies. They are not injurious, but their descendants, the wingless workers of the colony they will establish, are very destructive.

Once these underground colonies are established, the worker-termites begin the construction of earthen tubes through which they reach the woodwork of home or building and create untold damage. There, unseen, they eat away supporting timbers, always remaining inside the wood, until it is shredded and ready to crumble.

Home and building owners daily are learning the value of the Bruce Terminix Company's five-year bonded service of eradication and of termite-proofing. This is clearly reflected in the fact the company's volume of business during the first quarter of this year registered an increase of two and a half times over that of the same period of last year.

Through the application of its highly specialized treatment, the Bruce Terminix Company is prepared not only to completely eradicate existing termites, but to provide a safeguard against reinfestation over a five-year period.

Beware of Costly

Termite DAMAGE

Night and day millions of Termites secretly eat away the wood in structures, doing costly damage. Bruce Terminix Insulation stops this damage. Five-year service guarantee and surety bond issued with every treatment. No cost for inspecting your property now. It will pay you to know if termites are eating away the wood parts of your home or buildings.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS No. 67

"Witch! Sorceress!" shouted the voice of Canaan. "Into the lake with her!" Lady Beth stood aghast at this sudden change of attitude, dictated by Nearchus. A moment before, these ignorant creatures had proclaimed her divinity; now they were condemning her to be drowned!

The eyes of Nearchus blazed with evil triumph. At last he had reasserted his supreme authority. His shrill voice cried: "Nearchus, high priest of Bael and prophet of Iskander, ordain that thou shalt be enveloped in the sacred net and hurled into the bottomless lake!"

Desperately seeking some means of staying the fate that was descending swiftly upon her, Lady Beth said quietly: "Now indeed shall the wrath of Bael and his son Iskander be visited upon you! Soon Iskander will come amongst you—not as a deliverer, but as a dreadful scourge!"

For a moment, Beth thought the fanatic Baelites were impressed; but Nearchus found an answer. "If you are in truth the messenger of Iskander, thou needst not fear, for his magic power will save thee." He turned to the executioners. "Cast now the net upon her!"

DAILY SHORT STORY—AFTERNOON OFF

Just Once in a While Judy's Stay-at-Home Life Prompted a Surge of Rebellion.
 BY MARJORIE ERICKSEN.

Judy Grey smeared the lipstick generously on her mouth. Her three small sons eyed her critically.

"Too much, Mom," said Dickie, not yet old enough to recognize an overdone mouth as a sign of feminine revolt.

"It makes you look so funny—something like that clown we saw at the circus," he continued.

Judy wiped off a tiny bit of the offending red and reached for her new hat.

Martin Grey lounged into the bedroom, home an hour earlier to enable Judy to have this Saturday afternoon treat.

"Not a bad-looking girl when you're dressed up," he said.

Judy turned on him resentfully, but a glance at the clock checked the words that rose to her lips.

"As if we're late!" she said. "If these fellows of the rattle in their second-hand car toward the 'L' station Judy gave Mart his instructions.

"Plenty of eggs, milk and applesauce in the icebox. Graham crackers on the shelf," she enumerated.

"Don't worry," said Mart. "We won't starve." And as he opened the car door for her, "Money?" he asked.

"Well—"

He slipped a bill into her hand. "Go ahead and have a good time."

Judy flew up the station steps like a bird released from its cage. She loved Martin and the children, but she couldn't help an occasional surge of rebellion. Her life was a drag, filled with stay-at-home monotony.

Just for this afternoon she was leaving it all behind. She would share in the exciting glamorous life that was Harriet's. Poor Mart, she stayed at home and married a bookkeeper. She'd eloped with Leo, who was an actor. This week they were back in the home town.

The meeting with Harriet was reassuring. Judy had feared that because Harriet she would look dowdy and home-wifely. She glimpsed their reflections in the shop windows and arrived at the cheering conclusion that she looked younger than Harriet did, and certainly her clothes were newer.

Her pride in herself was shot with a little guilty sympathy for Martin. Poor Mart. She must buy any more clothes for herself until he got a new suit. His last one was one vast shine now.

"It's so good to see you again," said Harriet as they found their seats in the theater. "Traveling around as we do, most of my friendships seem so transitory. I only wish I could see Martin and the boys."

"Tomorrow's Sunday," suggested Judy. "Couldn't you and Leo come out for dinner?"

Harriet looked doubtful. "I might be able to come for an hour or two, but Leo would probably object."

"Why?" asked Judy.

"He doesn't care for children. They get too noisy."

"Or what?" screamed Harriet, jumping up. "Oh, I'm so sick of you! I don't know why I ever married you or why I'm such a fool as to stay."

Judy opened the door quietly and left. Much as she would have liked to help Harriet, she knew they would be better off without a third party. She waited impatiently for the homeward bound "L." When she reached her own neighborhood she dashed into a haberdashery and bought a box of buttons. Then into a candy store to buy a box of suckers for the children.

Reaching home at last she found Mart and the boys sitting in the kitchen. The milk and the applesauce and the graham crackers were on the table. So were two quart of ice cream, two bottles of root beer, and a foot of sausage that smelled strongly of garlic.

Mart cleared a place for her by the simple expedient of pushing half the dishes to the other side of the table.

"There's quite an assortment here," he said, indicating the motley collection. "I don't know whether you'll find what you want."

"It all looked good to me," said Judy, drawing up a chair. "Everything I want is right here."

And only Judy herself knew that she was referring to something far from the food on the table.

TEACHERS MAY FIGHT CHANGES IN SALARIES

Opposition Reported To Plan To Aid Lower Paid at Expense of Others.

Members of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association were reported last night as preparing to wage a bitter battle to prevent proposed slash of about $150,000 from the salaries of about 400 teachers in the higher brackets to boost the salaries of approximately 1,200 in the lower-paid schedules.

On the eve of a meeting tonight of a special personnel and salary revision committee of the board, headed by W. W. Matthews, fourth ward commissioner, at which the shift is to be considered, Eugene Sanders, president of the teachers' association, called a meeting of that body for 3 o'clock this afternoon at Commercial High school.

Sanders also mustered a board of strategy at the headquarters office last night at the Rhodes building following a meeting yesterday with Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, 11th ward commissioner and staunch supporter of Willis A. Suttles, school superintendent.

The meeting tonight is slated to be a test of the drive to curb the power of Suttles, as any change in the salary schedule would be considered by the board as "slap at the superintendent." Most of the salary schedules in force were adopted on recommendation of Suttles and any changes are sure to meet with his active opposition.

At this afternoon's meeting, the teachers are to adopt a policy regarding the proposed changes and although Sanders said the board would not attempt to place the organization on record as opposing the changes.

About 400 teachers draw approximately $100,000 a year in increments, which were abandoned in 1931, according to figures released by Matthews. He contends that several scores of the younger teachers never had an opportunity to get any increments since they came into the system after the board abolished them and that many of the younger teachers are doing less than $100 a month.

His plan is to revoke the increments drawn and to effect other economies to raise $150,000 to apply to the salaries of those in the lower salary brackets.

Cross Sections in South's Gate City

Thieves early yesterday morning broke the lock off the front door of a five-and-ten-cent store on Edgewood avenue, near Boulevard, and took a quantity of merchandise, according to police reports.

S. Teemes, of 75 Glenn street, reported to police yesterday that while he was in church he had broken a window in his home and took his wallet containing $10.

Tearing a hole in the roof of a chain store at 911 Marietta street yesterday morning, thieves entered and took cigarettes, cigars and other merchandise valued at $25, A. M. B. manager of the store, reported to police.

Atlanta police yesterday were expecting new safe-cracking activities following report of theft of tools from the offices of the Toledo Scale Company, at 339 Peachtree street. Drills and other tools used in cracking safes, it was reported, were taken by the thieves, who entered by forcing a rear door.

Mrs. Willie Flynn, of a local hotel, reported that a thief had broken a room early yesterday morning and took $5 in cash and a number of dresses.

Lions Club members will hear Augustus Fisher, director of the regional recreation department of FERA, at the club's luncheon at noon Tuesday.

Members of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the ladies auxiliary will attend a large dance tonight at Segado's hall on Pine street with the Atlanta Dixie Orchestra.

Evangelistic services will open at 8 o'clock tonight and will continue throughout the week under the leadership of Dr. W. S
